HAMLET

ACT I

SCENE I                   Elsinore. A platform before the castle.

[FRANCISCO at his post. Enter to him BERNARDO]

BERNARDO               Who's there?

FRANCISCO              Nay, answer me: stand, and unfold yourself.

BERNARDO              Long live the king!

FRANCISCO              Bernardo?

BERNARDO              He.

FRANCISCO              You come most carefully upon your hour.

BERNARDO              'Tis now struck twelve; get thee to bed, Francisco.

FRANCISCO              For this relief much thanks: 'tis bitter cold,
And I am sick at heart.

BERNARDO              Have you had quiet guard?

FRANCISCO              Not a mouse stirring.

BERNARDO              Well, good night.
If you do meet Horatio and Marcellus,
The rivals of my watch, bid them make haste.

FRANCISCO              I think I hear them. Stand, ho! Who's there?

[Enter HORATIO and MARCELLUS]

HORATIO                Friends to this ground.

MARCELLUS              And liegemen to the Dane.

FRANCISCO              Give you good night.

MARCELLUS              O, farewell, honest soldier:
Who hath relieved you?

FRANCISCO              Bernardo has my place.
Give you good night.

[Exit]

MARCELLUS              Holla! Bernardo!

BERNARDO            Say,
                      What, is Horatio there?

HORATIO             A piece of him.

BERNARDO            Welcome, Horatio: welcome, good Marcellus.

MARCELLUS           What, has this thing appear'd again to-night?

BERNARDO            I have seen nothing.

MARCELLUS           Horatio says 'tis but our fantasy,
                      And will not let belief take hold of him
                      Touching this dreaded sight, twice seen of us:
                      Therefore I have entreated him along
                      With us to watch the minutes of this night;
                      That if again this apparition come,
                      He may approve our eyes and speak to it.

HORATIO             Tush, tush, 'twill not appear.

BERNARDO            Sit down awhile;
                      And let us once again assail your ears,
                      That are so fortified against our story
                      What we have two nights seen.

HORATIO             Well, sit we down,
                      And let us hear Bernardo speak of this.

BERNARDO            Last night of all,
                      When yond same star that's westward from the pole
                      Had made his course to illume that part of heaven
                      Where now it burns, Marcellus and myself,
                      The bell then beating one,--

                      [Enter Ghost]

MARCELLUS           Peace, break thee off; look, where it comes again!

BERNARDO            In the same figure, like the king that's dead.

MARCELLUS           Thou art a scholar; speak to it, Horatio.

BERNARDO            Looks it not like the king? mark it, Horatio.

HORATIO             Most like: it harrows me with fear and wonder.

BERNARDO            It would be spoke to.

MARCELLUS           Question it, Horatio.

HORATIO             What art thou that usurp'st this time of night,
                      Together with that fair and warlike form

In which the majesty of buried Denmark
Did sometimes march? by heaven I charge thee, speak!

MARCELLUS           It is offended.

BERNARDO                       See, it stalks away!

HORATIO           Stay! speak, speak! I charge thee, speak!

[Exit Ghost]

MARCELLUS           'Tis gone, and will not answer.

BERNARDO           How now, Horatio! you tremble and look pale:
Is not this something more than fantasy?
What think you on't?

HORATIO           Before my God, I might not this believe Without the sensible and true avouch
Of mine own eyes.

MARCELLUS                       Is it not like the king?

HORATIO           As thou art to thyself:
Such was the very armour he had on
When he the ambitious Norway combated;
So frown'd he once, when, in an angry parle,
He smote the sledged Polacks on the ice.
'Tis strange.

MARCELLUS           Thus twice before, and jump at this dead hour,
With martial stalk hath he gone by our watch.

HORATIO           In what particular thought to work I know not;
But in the gross and scope of my opinion,
This bodes some strange eruption to our state.

MARCELLUS           Good now, sit down, and tell me, he that knows,
Why this same strict and most observant watch
So nightly toils the subject of the land,
And why such daily cast of brazen cannon,
And foreign mart for implements of war;
Why such impress of shipwrights, whose sore task
Does not divide the Sunday from the week;
What might be toward, that this sweaty haste
Doth make the night joint-labourer with the day:
Who is't that can inform me?

HORATIO           That can I;
At least, the whisper goes so. Our last king,
Whose image even but now appear'd to us,
Was, as you know, by Fortinbras of Norway,
Thereto prick'd on by a most emulate pride,
Dared to the combat; in which our valiant Hamlet--

For so this side of our known world esteem'd him--
Did slay this Fortinbras; who by a seal'd compact,
Well ratified by law and heraldry,
Did forfeit, with his life, all those his lands
Which he stood seized of, to the conqueror:
Against the which, a moiety competent
Was gaged by our king; which had return'd
To the inheritance of Fortinbras,
Had he been vanquisher; as, by the same covenant,
And carriage of the article design'd,
His fell to Hamlet. Now, sir, young Fortinbras,
Of unimproved mettle hot and full,
Hath in the skirts of Norway here and there
Shark'd up a list of lawless resolute,
For food and diet, to some enterprise
That hath a stomach in't; which is no other--
As it doth well appear unto our state--
But to recover of us, by strong hand
And terms compulsatory, those foresaid lands
So by his father lost: and this, I take it,
Is the main motive of our preparations,
The source of this our watch and the chief head
Of this post-haste and romage in the land.

BERNARDO           I think it be no other but e'en so:
Well may it sort that this portentous figure
Comes armed through our watch; so like the king
That was and is the question of these wars.

HORATIO           A mote it is to trouble the mind's eye.
In the most high and palmy state of Rome,
A little ere the mightiest Julius fell,
The graves stood tenantless and the sheeted dead
Did squeak and gibber in the Roman streets:
As stars with trains of fire and dews of blood,
Disasters in the sun; and the moist star
Upon whose influence Neptune's empire stands
Was sick almost to doomsday with eclipse:
And even the like precursor of fierce events,
As harbingers preceding still the fates
And prologue to the omen coming on,
Have heaven and earth together demonstrated
Unto our climatures and countrymen.--
But soft, behold! lo, where it comes again!

[Re-enter Ghost]

I'll cross it, though it blast me. Stay, illusion!
If thou hast any sound, or use of voice,
Speak to me:
If there be any good thing to be done,
That may to thee do ease and grace to me,
Speak to me:

[Cock crows]

If thou art privy to thy country's fate,
Which, happily, foreknowing may avoid, O, speak!
Or if thou hast uphoarded in thy life
Extorted treasure in the womb of earth,
For which, they say, you spirits oft walk in death,
Speak of it: stay, and speak! Stop it, Marcellus.

MARCELLUS            Shall I strike at it with my partisan?

HORATIO             Do, if it will not stand.

BERNARDO           'Tis here!

HORATIO             'Tis here!

MARCELLUS           'Tis gone!

[Exit Ghost]

We do it wrong, being so majestic,
To offer it the show of violence;
For it is, as the air, invulnerable,
And our vain blows malicious mockery.

BERNARDO           It was about to speak, when the cock crew.

HORATIO             And then it started like a guilty thing
Upon a fearful summons. I have heard,
The cock, that is the trumpet to the morn,
Doth with his lofty and shrill-sounding throat
Awake the god of day; and, at his warning,
Whether in sea or fire, in earth or air,
The extravagant and erring spirit hies
To his confine: and of the truth herein
This present object made probation.

MARCELLUS           It faded on the crowing of the cock.
Some say that ever 'gainst that season comes Wherein our Saviour's birth is celebrated,
The bird of dawning singeth all night long:
And then, they say, no spirit dares stir abroad;
The nights are wholesome; then no planets strike,
No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to charm,
So hallow'd and so gracious is the time.

HORATIO             So have I heard and do in part believe it.
But, look, the morn, in russet mantle clad,
Walks o'er the dew of yon high eastward hill:
Break we our watch up; and by my advice,
Let us impart what we have seen to-night
Unto young Hamlet; for, upon my life,
This spirit, dumb to us, will speak to him.

Do you consent we shall acquaint him with it,
As needful in our loves, fitting our duty?

MARCELLUS

Let's do't, I pray; and I this morning know
Where we shall find him most conveniently.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

SCENE II

A room of state in the castle.

[Enter KING CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, HAMLET, POLONIUS, LAERTES, VOLTIMAND, CORNELIUS, Lords, and Attendants]

KING CLAUDIUS

Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother's death
The memory be green, and that it us befitted
To bear our hearts in grief and our whole kingdom
To be contracted in one brow of woe,
Yet so far hath discretion fought with nature
That we with wisest sorrow think on him,
Together with remembrance of ourselves.
Therefore our sometime sister, now our queen,
The imperial jointress to this warlike state,
Have we, as 'twere with a defeated joy,--
With an auspicious and a dropping eye,
With mirth in funeral and with dirge in marriage,
In equal scale weighing delight and dole,--
Taken to wife: nor have we herein barr'd
Your better wisdoms, which have freely gone
With this affair along. For all, our thanks.
Now follows, that you know, young Fortinbras,
Holding a weak supposal of our worth,
Or thinking by our late dear brother's death
Our state to be disjoint and out of frame,
Collegued with the dream of his advantage,
He hath not fail'd to pester us with message,
Importing the surrender of those lands
Lost by his father, with all bonds of law,
To our most valiant brother. So much for him.
Now for ourself and for this time of meeting:
Thus much the business is: we have here writ
To Norway, uncle of young Fortinbras,--
Who, impotent and bed-rid, scarcely hears

Of this his nephew's purpose,--to suppress
His further gait herein; in that the levies,
The lists and full proportions, are all made
Out of his subject: and we here dispatch
You, good Cornelius, and you, Voltimand,
For bearers of this greeting to old Norway;
Giving to you no further personal power
To business with the king, more than the scope
Of these delated articles allow.
Farewell, and let your haste commend your duty.

CORNELIUS           |
                      | In that and all things will we show our duty.
VOLTIMAND           |

KING CLAUDIUS      We doubt it nothing: heartily farewell.

[Exeunt VOLTIMAND and CORNELIUS]

And now, Laertes, what's the news with you?
You told us of some suit; what is't, Laertes?
You cannot speak of reason to the Dane,
And loose your voice: what wouldst thou beg, Laertes,
That shall not be my offer, not thy asking?
The head is not more native to the heart,
The hand more instrumental to the mouth,
Than is the throne of Denmark to thy father.
What wouldst thou have, Laertes?

LAERTES            My dread lord,
Your leave and favour to return to France;
From whence though willingly I came to Denmark,
To show my duty in your coronation,
Yet now, I must confess, that duty done,
My thoughts and wishes bend again toward France
And bow them to your gracious leave and pardon.

KING CLAUDIUS      Have you your father's leave? What says Polonius?

LORD POLONIUS      He hath, my lord, wrung from me my slow leave
By laboursome petition, and at last
Upon his will I seal'd my hard consent:
I do beseech you, give him leave to go.

KING CLAUDIUS      Take thy fair hour, Laertes; time be thine,
And thy best graces spend it at thy will!
But now, my cousin Hamlet, and my son,--

HAMLET             [Aside] A little more than kin, and less than kind.

KING CLAUDIUS      How is it that the clouds still hang on you?

HAMLET                   Not so, my lord; I am too much i' the sun.

QUEEN GERTRUDE       Good Hamlet, cast thy nighted colour off,
And let thine eye look like a friend on Denmark.
Do not for ever with thy vailed lids
Seek for thy noble father in the dust:
Thou know'st 'tis common; all that lives must die,
Passing through nature to eternity.

HAMLET                   Ay, madam, it is common.

QUEEN GERTRUDE       If it be,
Why seems it so particular with thee?

HAMLET                   Seems, madam! nay it is; I know not 'seems.'
'Tis not alone my inky cloak, good mother,
Nor customary suits of solemn black,
Nor windy suspiration of forced breath,
No, nor the fruitful river in the eye,
Nor the dejected 'havior of the visage,
Together with all forms, moods, shapes of grief,
That can denote me truly: these indeed seem,
For they are actions that a man might play:
But I have that within which passeth show;
These but the trappings and the suits of woe.

KING CLAUDIUS       'Tis sweet and commendable in your nature, Hamlet,
To give these mourning duties to your father:
But, you must know, your father lost a father;
That father lost, lost his, and the survivor bound
In filial obligation for some term
To do obsequious sorrow: but to persevere
In obstinate condolement is a course
Of impious stubbornness; 'tis unmanly grief;
It shows a will most incorrect to heaven,
A heart unfortified, a mind impatient,
An understanding simple and unschool'd:
For what we know must be and is as common
As any the most vulgar thing to sense,
Why should we in our peevish opposition
Take it to heart? Fie! 'tis a fault to heaven,
A fault against the dead, a fault to nature,
To reason most absurd: whose common theme
Is death of fathers, and who still hath cried,
From the first corse till he that died to-day,
'This must be so.' We pray you, throw to earth
This unprevailing woe, and think of us
As of a father: for let the world take note,
You are the most immediate to our throne;
And with no less nobility of love
Than that which dearest father bears his son,
Do I impart toward you. For your intent
In going back to school in Wittenberg,
It is most retrograde to our desire:

And we beseech you, bend you to remain
Here, in the cheer and comfort of our eye,
Our chiefest courtier, cousin, and our son.

QUEEN GERTRUDE Let not thy mother lose her prayers, Hamlet:
I pray thee, stay with us; go not to Wittenberg.

HAMLET I shall in all my best obey you, madam.

KING CLAUDIUS Why, 'tis a loving and a fair reply:
Be as ourself in Denmark. Madam, come;
This gentle and unforced accord of Hamlet
Sits smiling to my heart: in grace whereof,
No jocund health that Denmark drinks to-day,
But the great cannon to the clouds shall tell,
And the king's rouse the heavens all bruit again,
Re-speaking earthly thunder. Come away.

[Exeunt all but HAMLET]

HAMLET O, that this too too solid flesh would melt
Thaw and resolve itself into a dew!
Or that the Everlasting had not fix'd
His canon 'gainst self-slaughter! O God! God!
How weary, stale, flat and unprofitable,
Seem to me all the uses of this world!
Fie on't! ah fie! 'tis an unweeded garden,
That grows to seed; things rank and gross in nature
Possess it merely. That it should come to this!
But two months dead: nay, not so much, not two:
So excellent a king; that was, to this,
Hyperion to a satyr; so loving to my mother
That he might not beteem the winds of heaven
Visit her face too roughly. Heaven and earth!
Must I remember? why, she would hang on him,
As if increase of appetite had grown
By what it fed on: and yet, within a month--
Let me not think on't--Frailty, thy name is woman!--
A little month, or ere those shoes were old
With which she follow'd my poor father's body,
Like Niobe, all tears:--why she, even she--
O, God! a beast, that wants discourse of reason,
Would have mourn'd longer--married with my uncle,
My father's brother, but no more like my father
Than I to Hercules: within a month:
Ere yet the salt of most unrighteous tears
Had left the flushing in her galled eyes,
She married. O, most wicked speed, to post
With such dexterity to incestuous sheets!
It is not nor it cannot come to good:
But break, my heart; for I must hold my tongue.

[Enter HORATIO, MARCELLUS, and BERNARDO]

HORATIO           Hail to your lordship!

HAMLET            I am glad to see you well:
                  Horatio,--or I do forget myself.

HORATIO           The same, my lord, and your poor servant ever.

HAMLET            Sir, my good friend; I'll change that name with you:
                  And what make you from Wittenberg, Horatio? Marcellus?

MARCELLUS        My good lord--

HAMLET            I am very glad to see you. Good even, sir.
                  But what, in faith, make you from Wittenberg?

HORATIO           A truant disposition, good my lord.

HAMLET            I would not hear your enemy say so,
                  Nor shall you do mine ear that violence,
                  To make it truster of your own report
                  Against yourself: I know you are no truant.
                  But what is your affair in Elsinore?
                  We'll teach you to drink deep ere you depart.

HORATIO           My lord, I came to see your father's funeral.

HAMLET            I pray thee, do not mock me, fellow-student;
                  I think it was to see my mother's wedding.

HORATIO           Indeed, my lord, it follow'd hard upon.

HAMLET            Thrift, thrift, Horatio! the funeral baked meats
                  Did coldly furnish forth the marriage tables.
                  Would I had met my dearest foe in heaven
                  Or ever I had seen that day, Horatio!
                  My father!--methinks I see my father.

HORATIO           Where, my lord?

HAMLET                               In my mind's eye, Horatio.

HORATIO           I saw him once; he was a goodly king.

HAMLET            He was a man, take him for all in all,
                  I shall not look upon his like again.

HORATIO           My lord, I think I saw him yesternight.

HAMLET            Saw? who?

HORATIO           My lord, the king your father.

HAMLET            The king my father!

HORATIO                   Season your admiration for awhile
                               With an attent ear, till I may deliver,
                               Upon the witness of these gentlemen,
                               This marvel to you.

HAMLET                   For God's love, let me hear.

HORATIO                   Two nights together had these gentlemen,
                               Marcellus and Bernardo, on their watch,
                               In the dead vast and middle of the night,
                               Been thus encounter'd. A figure like your father,
                               Armed at point exactly, cap-a-pe,
                               Appears before them, and with solemn march
                               Goes slow and stately by them: thrice he walk'd
                               By their oppress'd and fear-surprised eyes,
                               Within his truncheon's length; whilst they, distilled
                               Almost to jelly with the act of fear,
                               Stand dumb and speak not to him. This to me
                               In dreadful secrecy impart they did;
                               And I with them the third night kept the watch;
                               Where, as they had deliver'd, both in time,
                               Form of the thing, each word made true and good,
                               The apparition comes: I knew your father;
                               These hands are not more like.

HAMLET                   But where was this?

MARCELLUS               My lord, upon the platform where we watch'd.

HAMLET                   Did you not speak to it?

HORATIO                   My lord, I did;
                               But answer made it none: yet once methought
                               It lifted up its head and did address
                               Itself to motion, like as it would speak;
                               But even then the morning cock crew loud,
                               And at the sound it shrunk in haste away,
                               And vanish'd from our sight.

HAMLET                   'Tis very strange.

HORATIO                   As I do live, my honour'd lord, 'tis true;
                               And we did think it writ down in our duty
                               To let you know of it.

HAMLET                   Indeed, indeed, sirs, but this troubles me.
                               Hold you the watch to-night?

MARCELLUS               |
                               |                               We do, my lord.

BERNARDO               |

HAMLET           Arm'd, say you?

MARCELLUS       |
                  |   Arm'd, my lord.
BERNARDO        |

HAMLET           From top to toe?

MARCELLUS       |
                  |               My lord, from head to foot.
BERNARDO        |

HAMLET           Then saw you not his face?

HORATIO          O, yes, my lord; he wore his beaver up.

HAMLET           What, look'd he frowningly?

HORATIO          A countenance more in sorrow than in anger.

HAMLET           Pale or red?

HORATIO          Nay, very pale.

HAMLET                               And fix'd his eyes upon you?

HORATIO          Most constantly.

HAMLET                               I would I had been there.

HORATIO          It would have much amazed you.

HAMLET           Very like, very like. Stay'd it long?

HORATIO          While one with moderate haste might tell a hundred.

MARCELLUS       |
                  |   Longer, longer.
BERNARDO        |

HORATIO          Not when I saw't.

HAMLET                               His beard was grizzled--no?

HORATIO          It was, as I have seen it in his life,
                  A sable silver'd.

HAMLET                               I will watch to-night;

Perchance 'twill walk again.

HORATIO I warrant it will.

HAMLET If it assume my noble father's person,
I'll speak to it, though hell itself should gape
And bid me hold my peace. I pray you all,
If you have hitherto conceal'd this sight,
Let it be tenable in your silence still;
And whatsoever else shall hap to-night,
Give it an understanding, but no tongue:
I will requite your loves. So, fare you well:
Upon the platform, 'twixt eleven and twelve,
I'll visit you.

All Our duty to your honour.

HAMLET Your loves, as mine to you: farewell.

[Exeunt all but HAMLET]

My father's spirit in arms! all is not well;
I doubt some foul play: would the night were come!
Till then sit still, my soul: foul deeds will rise,
Though all the earth o'erwhelm them, to men's eyes.

[Exit]

HAMLET

ACT I

SCENE III A room in Polonius' house.

[Enter LAERTES and OPHELIA]

LAERTES My necessities are embark'd: farewell:
And, sister, as the winds give benefit
And convoy is assistant, do not sleep,
But let me hear from you.

OPHELIA Do you doubt that?

LAERTES For Hamlet and the trifling of his favour,
Hold it a fashion and a toy in blood,
A violet in the youth of primy nature,
Forward, not permanent, sweet, not lasting,

The perfume and suppliance of a minute; No more.

OPHELIA

No more but so?

LAERTES

Think it no more;
For nature, crescent, does not grow alone
In thews and bulk, but, as this temple waxes,
The inward service of the mind and soul
Grows wide withal. Perhaps he loves you now,
And now no soil nor cautel doth besmirch
The virtue of his will: but you must fear,
His greatness weigh'd, his will is not his own;
For he himself is subject to his birth:
He may not, as unvalued persons do,
Carve for himself; for on his choice depends
The safety and health of this whole state;
And therefore must his choice be circumscribed
Unto the voice and yielding of that body
Whereof he is the head. Then if he says he loves you,
It fits your wisdom so far to believe it
As he in his particular act and place
May give his saying deed; which is no further
Than the main voice of Denmark goes withal.
Then weigh what loss your honour may sustain,
If with too credent ear you list his songs,
Or lose your heart, or your chaste treasure open
To his unmaster'd importunity.
Fear it, Ophelia, fear it, my dear sister,
And keep you in the rear of your affection,
Out of the shot and danger of desire.
The chariest maid is prodigal enough,
If she unmask her beauty to the moon:
Virtue itself 'scapes not calumnious strokes:
The canker galls the infants of the spring,
Too oft before their buttons be disclosed,
And in the morn and liquid dew of youth
Contagious blastments are most imminent.
Be wary then; best safety lies in fear:
Youth to itself rebels, though none else near.

OPHELIA

I shall the effect of this good lesson keep,
As watchman to my heart. But, good my brother,
Do not, as some ungracious pastors do,
Show me the steep and thorny way to heaven;
Whiles, like a puff'd and reckless libertine,
Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads,
And recks not his own rede.

LAERTES

O, fear me not.
I stay too long: but here my father comes.

[Enter POLONIUS]

A double blessing is a double grace,

Occasion smiles upon a second leave.

LORD POLONIUS     Yet here, Laertes! aboard, aboard, for shame!
The wind sits in the shoulder of your sail,
And you are stay'd for. There; my blessing with thee!
And these few precepts in thy memory
See thou character. Give thy thoughts no tongue,
Nor any unproportioned thought his act.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel;
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatch'd, unfledged comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel, but being in,
Bear't that the opposed may beware of thee.
Give every man thy ear, but few thy voice;
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgment.
Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not express'd in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man,
And they in France of the best rank and station
Are of a most select and generous chief in that.
Neither a borrower nor a lender be;
For loan oft loses both itself and friend,
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
This above all: to thine ownself be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
Farewell: my blessing season this in thee!

LAERTES            Most humbly do I take my leave, my lord.

LORD POLONIUS     The time invites you; go; your servants tend.

LAERTES            Farewell, Ophelia; and remember well
What I have said to you.

OPHELIA            'Tis in my memory lock'd,
And you yourself shall keep the key of it.

LAERTES            Farewell.

[Exit]

LORD POLONIUS     What is't, Ophelia, he hath said to you?

OPHELIA            So please you, something touching the Lord Hamlet.

LORD POLONIUS     Marry, well bethought:
'Tis told me, he hath very oft of late
Given private time to you; and you yourself
Have of your audience been most free and bounteous:
If it be so, as so 'tis put on me,
And that in way of caution, I must tell you,

You do not understand yourself so clearly
As it behoves my daughter and your honour.
What is between you? give me up the truth.

OPHELIA           He hath, my lord, of late made many tenders
Of his affection to me.

LORD POLONIUS   Affection! pooh! you speak like a green girl,
Unsifted in such perilous circumstance.
Do you believe his tenders, as you call them?

OPHELIA           I do not know, my lord, what I should think.

LORD POLONIUS   Marry, I'll teach you: think yourself a baby;
That you have ta'en these tenders for true pay,
Which are not sterling. Tender yourself more dearly;
Or--not to crack the wind of the poor phrase,
Running it thus--you'll tender me a fool.

OPHELIA           My lord, he hath importuned me with love
In honourable fashion.

LORD POLONIUS   Ay, fashion you may call it; go to, go to.

OPHELIA           And hath given countenance to his speech, my lord,
With almost all the holy vows of heaven.

LORD POLONIUS   Ay, springes to catch woodcocks. I do know,
When the blood burns, how prodigal the soul
Lends the tongue vows: these blazes, daughter,
Giving more light than heat, extinct in both,
Even in their promise, as it is a-making,
You must not take for fire. From this time
Be somewhat scanter of your maiden presence;
Set your entreatments at a higher rate
Than a command to parley. For Lord Hamlet, Believe so much in him, that he is young
And with a larger tether may he walk
Than may be given you: in few, Ophelia,
Do not believe his vows; for they are brokers,
Not of that dye which their investments show,
But mere implorators of unholy suits,
Breathing like sanctified and pious bawds,
The better to beguile. This is for all:
I would not, in plain terms, from this time forth,
Have you so slander any moment leisure,
As to give words or talk with the Lord Hamlet.
Look to't, I charge you: come your ways.

OPHELIA           I shall obey, my lord.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT I

SCENE IV           The platform.

[Enter HAMLET, HORATIO, and MARCELLUS]

HAMLET           The air bites shrewdly; it is very cold.

HORATIO          It is a nipping and an eager air.

HAMLET           What hour now?

HORATIO                           I think it lacks of twelve.

HAMLET           No, it is struck.

HORATIO          Indeed? I heard it not: then it draws near the season
Wherein the spirit held his wont to walk.

[A flourish of trumpets, and ordnance shot off, within]

What does this mean, my lord?

HAMLET           The king doth wake to-night and takes his rouse,
Keeps wassail, and the swaggering up-spring reels;
And, as he drains his draughts of Rhenish down,
The kettle-drum and trumpet thus bray out
The triumph of his pledge.

HORATIO          Is it a custom?

HAMLET           Ay, marry, is't:
But to my mind, though I am native here
And to the manner born, it is a custom
More honour'd in the breach than the observance.
This heavy-headed revel east and west
Makes us traduced and tax'd of other nations:
They clepe us drunkards, and with swinish phrase
Soil our addition; and indeed it takes
From our achievements, though perform'd at height,
The pith and marrow of our attribute.
So, oft it chances in particular men,
That for some vicious mole of nature in them,
As, in their birth--wherein they are not guilty,
Since nature cannot choose his origin--
By the o'ergrowth of some complexion,

Oft breaking down the pales and forts of reason,
Or by some habit that too much o'er-leavens
The form of plausible manners, that these men,
Carrying, I say, the stamp of one defect,
Being nature's livery, or fortune's star,--
Their virtues else--be they as pure as grace,
As infinite as man may undergo--
Shall in the general censure take corruption
From that particular fault: the dram of eale
Doth all the noble substance of a doubt
To his own scandal.

HORATIO            Look, my lord, it comes!

[Enter Ghost]

HAMLET            Angels and ministers of grace defend us!
Be thou a spirit of health or goblin damn'd,
Bring with thee airs from heaven or blasts from hell,
Be thy intents wicked or charitable,
Thou comest in such a questionable shape
That I will speak to thee: I'll call thee Hamlet,
King, father, royal Dane: O, answer me!
Let me not burst in ignorance; but tell
Why thy canonized bones, hearsed in death,
Have burst their cerements; why the sepulchre,
Wherein we saw thee quietly inurn'd,
Hath oped his ponderous and marble jaws,
To cast thee up again. What may this mean,
That thou, dead corse, again in complete steel
Revisit'st thus the glimpses of the moon,
Making night hideous; and we fools of nature
So horridly to shake our disposition
With thoughts beyond the reaches of our souls?
Say, why is this? wherefore? what should we do?

[Ghost beckons HAMLET]

HORATIO            It beckons you to go away with it,
As if it some impartment did desire
To you alone.

MARCELLUS                            Look, with what courteous action
It waves you to a more removed ground:
But do not go with it.

HORATIO            No, by no means.

HAMLET            It will not speak; then I will follow it.

HORATIO            Do not, my lord.

HAMLET                            Why, what should be the fear?
I do not set my life in a pin's fee;

And for my soul, what can it do to that,
Being a thing immortal as itself?
It waves me forth again: I'll follow it.

HORATIO           What if it tempt you toward the flood, my lord,
Or to the dreadful summit of the cliff
That beetles o'er his base into the sea,
And there assume some other horrible form,
Which might deprive your sovereignty of reason
And draw you into madness? think of it:
The very place puts toys of desperation,
Without more motive, into every brain
That looks so many fathoms to the sea
And hears it roar beneath.

HAMLET           It waves me still.
Go on; I'll follow thee.

MARCELLUS       You shall not go, my lord.

HAMLET           Hold off your hands.

HORATIO           Be ruled; you shall not go.

HAMLET           My fate cries out,
And makes each petty artery in this body
As hardy as the Nemean lion's nerve.
Still am I call'd. Unhand me, gentlemen.
By heaven, I'll make a ghost of him that lets me!
I say, away! Go on; I'll follow thee.

[Exeunt Ghost and HAMLET]

HORATIO           He waxes desperate with imagination.

MARCELLUS       Let's follow; 'tis not fit thus to obey him.

HORATIO           Have after. To what issue will this come?

MARCELLUS       Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

HORATIO           Heaven will direct it.

MARCELLUS       Nay, let's follow him.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

SCENE V

Another part of the platform.

[Enter GHOST and HAMLET]

HAMLET               Where wilt thou lead me? speak; I'll go no further.

Ghost                Mark me.

HAMLET                       I will.

Ghost                               My hour is almost come,
When I to sulphurous and tormenting flames
Must render up myself.

HAMLET               Alas, poor ghost!

Ghost                Pity me not, but lend thy serious hearing
To what I shall unfold.

HAMLET               Speak; I am bound to hear.

Ghost                So art thou to revenge, when thou shalt hear.

HAMLET               What?

Ghost                I am thy father's spirit,
Doom'd for a certain term to walk the night,
And for the day confined to fast in fires,
Till the foul crimes done in my days of nature
Are burnt and purged away. But that I am forbid
To tell the secrets of my prison-house,
I could a tale unfold whose lightest word
Would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood,
Make thy two eyes, like stars, start from their spheres,
Thy knotted and combined locks to part
And each particular hair to stand on end,
Like quills upon the fretful porpentine:
But this eternal blazon must not be
To ears of flesh and blood. List, list, O, list!
If thou didst ever thy dear father love--

HAMLET               O God!

Ghost                Revenge his foul and most unnatural murder.

HAMLET               Murder!

Ghost                Murder most foul, as in the best it is;
But this most foul, strange and unnatural.

HAMLET           Haste me to know't, that I, with wings as swift
As meditation or the thoughts of love,
May sweep to my revenge.

Ghost            I find thee apt;
And duller shouldst thou be than the fat weed
That roots itself in ease on Lethe wharf, Wouldst thou not stir in this. Now, Hamlet, hear:
'Tis given out that, sleeping in my orchard,
A serpent stung me; so the whole ear of Denmark
Is by a forged process of my death
Rankly abused: but know, thou noble youth,
The serpent that did sting thy father's life
Now wears his crown.

HAMLET           O my prophetic soul! My uncle!

Ghost            Ay, that incestuous, that adulterate beast,
With witchcraft of his wit, with traitorous gifts,--
O wicked wit and gifts, that have the power
So to seduce!--won to his shameful lust
The will of my most seeming-virtuous queen:
O Hamlet, what a falling-off was there!
From me, whose love was of that dignity
That it went hand in hand even with the vow
I made to her in marriage, and to decline
Upon a wretch whose natural gifts were poor
To those of mine!
But virtue, as it never will be moved,
Though lewdness court it in a shape of heaven,
So lust, though to a radiant angel link'd,
Will sate itself in a celestial bed,
And prey on garbage.
But, soft! methinks I scent the morning air;
Brief let me be. Sleeping within my orchard,
My custom always of the afternoon,
Upon my secure hour thy uncle stole,
With juice of cursed hebenon in a vial,
And in the porches of my ears did pour
The leperous distilment; whose effect
Holds such an enmity with blood of man
That swift as quicksilver it courses through
The natural gates and alleys of the body,
And with a sudden vigour doth posset
And curd, like eager droppings into milk,
The thin and wholesome blood: so did it mine;
And a most instant tetter bark'd about,
Most lazar-like, with vile and loathsome crust,
All my smooth body.
Thus was I, sleeping, by a brother's hand
Of life, of crown, of queen, at once dispatch'd:
Cut off even in the blossoms of my sin,
Unhousel'd, disappointed, unanel'd,
No reckoning made, but sent to my account

With all my imperfections on my head:
O, horrible! O, horrible! most horrible!
If thou hast nature in thee, bear it not;
Let not the royal bed of Denmark be
A couch for luxury and damned incest.
But, howsoever thou pursuest this act,
Taint not thy mind, nor let thy soul contrive
Against thy mother aught: leave her to heaven
And to those thorns that in her bosom lodge,
To prick and sting her. Fare thee well at once!
The glow-worm shows the matin to be near,
And 'gins to pale his uneffectual fire:
Adieu, adieu! Hamlet, remember me.

[Exit]

HAMLET           O all you host of heaven! O earth! what else?
And shall I couple hell? O, fie! Hold, hold, my heart;
And you, my sinews, grow not instant old,
But bear me stiffly up. Remember thee!
Ay, thou poor ghost, while memory holds a seat
In this distracted globe. Remember thee!
Yea, from the table of my memory
I'll wipe away all trivial fond records,
All saws of books, all forms, all pressures past,
That youth and observation copied there;
And thy commandment all alone shall live
Within the book and volume of my brain,
Unmix'd with baser matter: yes, by heaven!
O most pernicious woman!
O villain, villain, smiling, damned villain!
My tables,--meet it is I set it down,
That one may smile, and smile, and be a villain;
At least I'm sure it may be so in Denmark:

[Writing]

So, uncle, there you are. Now to my word;
It is 'Adieu, adieu! remember me.'
I have sworn 't.

MARCELLUS       |
                  | [Within] My lord, my lord,--
HORATIO          |

MARCELLUS       [Within]           Lord Hamlet,--

HORATIO          [Within]           Heaven secure him!

HAMLET           So be it!

HORATIO          [Within]   Hillo, ho, ho, my lord!

HAMLET                   Hillo, ho, ho, boy! come, bird, come.

                          [Enter HORATIO and MARCELLUS]

MARCELLUS               How is't, my noble lord?

HORATIO                  What news, my lord?

HAMLET                   O, wonderful!

HORATIO                               Good my lord, tell it.

HAMLET                   No; you'll reveal it.

HORATIO                   Not I, my lord, by heaven.

MARCELLUS               Nor I, my lord.

HAMLET                   How say you, then; would heart of man once think it?
But you'll be secret?

HORATIO                  |

                          |                   Ay, by heaven, my lord.

MARCELLUS               |

HAMLET                   There's ne'er a villain dwelling in all Denmark
But he's an arrant knave.

HORATIO                   There needs no ghost, my lord, come from the grave
To tell us this.

HAMLET                               Why, right; you are i' the right;
And so, without more circumstance at all,
I hold it fit that we shake hands and part:
You, as your business and desire shall point you;
For every man has business and desire,
Such as it is; and for mine own poor part,
Look you, I'll go pray.

HORATIO                   These are but wild and whirling words, my lord.

HAMLET                   I'm sorry they offend you, heartily;
Yes, 'faith heartily.

HORATIO                   There's no offence, my lord.

HAMLET                   Yes, by Saint Patrick, but there is, Horatio,
And much offence too. Touching this vision here,
It is an honest ghost, that let me tell you:
For your desire to know what is between us,
O'ermaster 't as you may. And now, good friends,

As you are friends, scholars and soldiers,
Give me one poor request.

HORATIO                   What is't, my lord? we will.

HAMLET                   Never make known what you have seen to-night.

HORATIO                   |
                          | My lord, we will not.
MARCELLUS                |

HAMLET                   Nay, but swear't.

HORATIO                   In faith,
                          My lord, not I.

MARCELLUS                                   Nor I, my lord, in faith.

HAMLET                   Upon my sword.

MARCELLUS                                   We have sworn, my lord, already.

HAMLET                   Indeed, upon my sword, indeed.

Ghost                   [Beneath] Swear.

HAMLET                   Ah, ha, boy! say'st thou so? art thou there, truepenny?
                          Come on--you hear this fellow in the cellarage-- Consent to swear.

HORATIO                                   Propose the oath, my lord.

HAMLET                   Never to speak of this that you have seen,
                          Swear by my sword.

Ghost                   [Beneath] Swear.

HAMLET                   Hic et ubique? then we'll shift our ground.
                          Come hither, gentlemen,
                          And lay your hands again upon my sword:
                          Never to speak of this that you have heard,
                          Swear by my sword.

Ghost                   [Beneath] Swear.

HAMLET                   Well said, old mole! canst work i' the earth so fast?
                          A worthy pioner! Once more remove, good friends.

HORATIO                   O day and night, but this is wondrous strange!

HAMLET                   And therefore as a stranger give it welcome.

There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio,
Than are dreamt of in your philosophy. But come;
Here, as before, never, so help you mercy,
How strange or odd soe'er I bear myself,
As I perchance hereafter shall think meet
To put an antic disposition on,
That you, at such times seeing me, never shall,
With arms encumber'd thus, or this headshake,
Or by pronouncing of some doubtful phrase,
As 'Well, well, we know,' or 'We could, an if we would,'
Or 'If we list to speak,' or 'There be, an if they might,'
Or such ambiguous giving out, to note
That you know aught of me: this not to do,
So grace and mercy at your most need help you, Swear.

Ghost                   [Beneath]   Swear.

HAMLET               Rest, rest, perturbed spirit!

[They swear]

                                  So, gentlemen,
With all my love I do commend me to you:
And what so poor a man as Hamlet is
May do, to express his love and friending to you,
God willing, shall not lack. Let us go in together;
And still your fingers on your lips, I pray.
The time is out of joint: O cursed spite,
That ever I was born to set it right!
Nay, come, let's go together.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT II

SCENE I               A room in POLONIUS' house.

[Enter POLONIUS and REYNALDO]

LORD POLONIUS       Give him this money and these notes, Reynaldo.

REYNALDO            I will, my lord.

LORD POLONIUS       You shall do marvellous wisely, good Reynaldo,
Before you visit him, to make inquire

Of his behavior.

REYNALDO

My lord, I did intend it.

LORD POLONIUS

Marry, well said; very well said. Look you, sir,
Inquire me first what Danskers are in Paris;
And how, and who, what means, and where they keep,
What company, at what expense; and finding
By this encompassment and drift of question
That they do know my son, come you more nearer
Than your particular demands will touch it:
Take you, as 'twere, some distant knowledge of him;
As thus, 'I know his father and his friends,
And in part him: ' do you mark this, Reynaldo?

REYNALDO

Ay, very well, my lord.

LORD POLONIUS

'And in part him; but' you may say 'not well:
But, if't be he I mean, he's very wild;
Addicted so and so:' and there put on him
What forgeries you please; marry, none so rank
As may dishonour him; take heed of that;
But, sir, such wanton, wild and usual slips
As are companions noted and most known
To youth and liberty.

REYNALDO

As gaming, my lord.

LORD POLONIUS

Ay, or drinking, fencing, swearing, quarrelling,
Drabbing: you may go so far.

REYNALDO

My lord, that would dishonour him.

LORD POLONIUS

'Faith, no; as you may season it in the charge
You must not put another scandal on him,
That he is open to incontinency;
That's not my meaning: but breathe his faults so quaintly
That they may seem the taints of liberty,
The flash and outbreak of a fiery mind,
A savageness in unreclaimed blood,
Of general assault.

REYNALDO

But, my good lord,--

LORD POLONIUS

Wherefore should you do this?

REYNALDO

Ay, my lord,
I would know that.

LORD POLONIUS

Marry, sir, here's my drift;
And I believe, it is a fetch of wit:
You laying these slight sullies on my son,
As 'twere a thing a little soil'd i' the working, Mark

you,

Your party in converse, him you would sound,
Having ever seen in the prenominate crimes
The youth you breathe of guilty, be assured
He closes with you in this consequence;
'Good sir,' or so, or 'friend,' or 'gentleman,'
According to the phrase or the addition
Of man and country.

REYNALDO           Very good, my lord.

LORD POLONIUS      And then, sir, does he this--he does--what was I about to say? By the mass, I was about to say something: where did I leave?

REYNALDO           At 'closes in the consequence,' at 'friend or so,'
and 'gentleman.'

LORD POLONIUS      At 'closes in the consequence,' ay, marry;
He closes thus: 'I know the gentleman;
I saw him yesterday, or t' other day,
Or then, or then; with such, or such; and, as you say,
There was a' gaming; there o'ertook in's rouse;
There falling out at tennis:' or perchance,
'I saw him enter such a house of sale,'
Videlicet, a brothel, or so forth.
See you now;
Your bait of falsehood takes this carp of truth:
And thus do we of wisdom and of reach,
With windlasses and with assays of bias,
By indirections find directions out:
So by my former lecture and advice,
Shall you my son. You have me, have you not?

REYNALDO           My lord, I have.

LORD POLONIUS                           God be wi' you; fare you well.

REYNALDO           Good my lord!

LORD POLONIUS      Observe his inclination in yourself.

REYNALDO           I shall, my lord.

LORD POLONIUS      And let him ply his music.

REYNALDO           Well, my lord.

LORD POLONIUS      Farewell!

[Exit REYNALDO]

[Enter OPHELIA]

How now, Ophelia! what's the matter?

OPHELIA           O, my lord, my lord, I have been so affrighted!

LORD POLONIUS    With what, i' the name of God?

OPHELIA           My lord, as I was sewing in my closet,
                   Lord Hamlet, with his doublet all unbraced;
                   No hat upon his head; his stockings foul'd,
                   Ungarter'd, and down-gyved to his ancle;
                   Pale as his shirt; his knees knocking each other;
                   And with a look so piteous in purport
                   As if he had been loosed out of hell
                   To speak of horrors,--he comes before me.

LORD POLONIUS    Mad for thy love?

OPHELIA                               My lord, I do not know;
                   But truly, I do fear it.

LORD POLONIUS    What said he?

OPHELIA           He took me by the wrist and held me hard;
                   Then goes he to the length of all his arm;
                   And, with his other hand thus o'er his brow,
                   He falls to such perusal of my face
                   As he would draw it. Long stay'd he so;
                   At last, a little shaking of mine arm
                   And thrice his head thus waving up and down,
                   He raised a sigh so piteous and profound
                   As it did seem to shatter all his bulk
                   And end his being: that done, he lets me go:
                   And, with his head over his shoulder turn'd,
                   He seem'd to find his way without his eyes;
                   For out o' doors he went without their helps,
                   And, to the last, bended their light on me.

LORD POLONIUS    Come, go with me: I will go seek the king.
                   This is the very ecstasy of love,
                   Whose violent property fordoes itself
                   And leads the will to desperate undertakings
                   As oft as any passion under heaven
                   That does afflict our natures. I am sorry.
                   What, have you given him any hard words of late?

OPHELIA           No, my good lord, but, as you did command,
                   I did repel his fetters and denied
                   His access to me.

LORD POLONIUS                       That hath made him mad.
                   I am sorry that with better heed and judgment
                   I had not quoted him: I fear'd he did but trifle,
                   And meant to wreck thee; but, beshrew my jealousy!
                   By heaven, it is as proper to our age
                   To cast beyond ourselves in our opinions

As it is common for the younger sort
To lack discretion. Come, go we to the king:
This must be known; which, being kept close, might move
More grief to hide than hate to utter love.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT II

SCENE II           A room in the castle.

[Enter KING CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, ROSENCRANTZ,
GUILDENSTERN, and Attendants]

KING CLAUDIUS   Welcome, dear Rosencrantz and Guildenstern!
Moreover that we much did long to see you,
The need we have to use you did provoke
Our hasty sending. Something have you heard
Of Hamlet's transformation; so call it,
Sith nor the exterior nor the inward man
Resembles that it was. What it should be,
More than his father's death, that thus hath put him
So much from the understanding of himself,
I cannot dream of: I entreat you both,
That, being of so young days brought up with him,
And sith so neighbour'd to his youth and havior,
That you vouchsafe your rest here in our court
Some little time: so by your companies
To draw him on to pleasures, and to gather,
So much as from occasion you may glean,
Whether aught, to us unknown, afflicts him thus,
That, open'd, lies within our remedy.

QUEEN GERTRUDE   Good gentlemen, he hath much talk'd of you;
And sure I am two men there are not living
To whom he more adheres. If it will please you
To show us so much gentry and good will
As to expend your time with us awhile,
For the supply and profit of our hope,
Your visitation shall receive such thanks
As fits a king's remembrance.

ROSENCRANTZ      Both your majesties
Might, by the sovereign power you have of us,

[Re-enter POLONIUS, with VOLTIMAND and CORNELIUS]

                                Welcome, my good friends!
Say, Voltimand, what from our brother Norway?

VOLTIMAND           Most fair return of greetings and desires.
                    Upon our first, he sent out to suppress
                    His nephew's levies; which to him appear'd
                    To be a preparation 'gainst the Polack;
                    But, better look'd into, he truly found
                    It was against your highness: whereat grieved,
                    That so his sickness, age and impotence
                    Was falsely borne in hand, sends out arrests
                    On Fortinbras; which he, in brief, obeys;
                    Receives rebuke from Norway, and in fine
                    Makes vow before his uncle never more
                    To give the assay of arms against your majesty.
                    Whereon old Norway, overcome with joy,
                    Gives him three thousand crowns in annual fee,
                    And his commission to employ those soldiers,
                    So levied as before, against the Polack:
                    With an entreaty, herein further shown,

                    [Giving a paper]

                    That it might please you to give quiet pass
                    Through your dominions for this enterprise,
                    On such regards of safety and allowance
                    As therein are set down.

KING CLAUDIUS       It likes us well;
                    And at our more consider'd time well read,
                    Answer, and think upon this business.
                    Meantime we thank you for your well-took labour:
                    Go to your rest; at night we'll feast together:
                    Most welcome home!

                    [Exeunt VOLTIMAND and CORNELIUS]

LORD POLONIUS                           This business is well ended.
                    My liege, and madam, to expostulate
                    What majesty should be, what duty is,
                    Why day is day, night night, and time is time,
                    Were nothing but to waste night, day and time.
                    Therefore, since brevity is the soul of wit,
                    And tediousness the limbs and outward flourishes,
                    I will be brief: your noble son is mad:
                    Mad call I it; for, to define true madness,
                    What is't but to be nothing else but mad?
                    But let that go.

QUEEN GERTRUDE                           More matter, with less art.

KING CLAUDIUS      Do you think 'tis this?

QUEEN GERTRUDE     It may be, very likely.

LORD POLONIUS       Hath there been such a time--I'd fain know that--
That I have positively said 'Tis so,'
When it proved otherwise?

KING CLAUDIUS       Not that I know.

LORD POLONIUS       [Pointing to his head and shoulder]

                        Take this from this, if this be otherwise:
If circumstances lead me, I will find
Where truth is hid, though it were hid indeed
Within the centre.

KING CLAUDIUS                               How may we try it further?

LORD POLONIUS       You know, sometimes he walks four hours together
Here in the lobby.

QUEEN GERTRUDE                             So he does indeed.

LORD POLONIUS       At such a time I'll loose my daughter to him:
Be you and I behind an arras then;
Mark the encounter: if he love her not
And be not from his reason fall'n thereon,
Let me be no assistant for a state,
But keep a farm and carters.

KING CLAUDIUS       We will try it.

QUEEN GERTRUDE       But, look, where sadly the poor wretch comes reading.

LORD POLONIUS      Away, I do beseech you, both away:
I'll board him presently.

[Exeunt KING CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, and Attendants]

[Enter HAMLET, reading]

   O, give me leave:
How does my good Lord Hamlet?

HAMLET                Well, God-a-mercy.

LORD POLONIUS      Do you know me, my lord?

HAMLET                Excellent well; you are a fishmonger.

LORD POLONIUS      Not I, my lord.

HAMLET                Then I would you were so honest a man.

LORD POLONIUS      Honest, my lord!

HAMLET                Ay, sir; to be honest, as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand.

LORD POLONIUS      That's very true, my lord.

HAMLET                For if the sun breed maggots in a dead dog, being a god kissing carrion,--Have you a daughter?

LORD POLONIUS      I have, my lord.

HAMLET                Let her not walk i' the sun: conception is a blessing: but not as your daughter may conceive.
Friend, look to 't.

LORD POLONIUS      [Aside] How say you by that? Still harping on my daughter: yet he knew me not at first; he said I was a fishmonger: he is far gone, far gone: and truly in my youth I suffered much extremity for love; very near this. I'll speak to him again.
What do you read, my lord?

HAMLET                Words, words, words.

LORD POLONIUS      What is the matter, my lord?

HAMLET                Between who?

LORD POLONIUS      I mean, the matter that you read, my lord.

HAMLET                Slanders, sir: for the satirical rogue says here that old men have grey beards, that their faces are wrinkled, their eyes purging thick amber and plum-tree gum and that they have a plentiful lack of wit, together with most weak hams: all which, sir, though I most powerfully and potently believe, yet I hold it not honesty to have it thus set down, for yourself, sir, should be old as I am, if like a crab you could go backward.

LORD POLONIUS     [Aside] Though this be madness, yet there is method in 't. Will you walk out of the air, my lord?

HAMLET             Into my grave.

LORD POLONIUS     Indeed, that is out o' the air.

[Aside]

How pregnant sometimes his replies are! a happiness that often madness hits on, which reason and sanity could not so prosperously be delivered of. I will leave him, and suddenly contrive the means of meeting between him and my daughter.--My honourable lord, I will most humbly take my leave of you.

HAMLET             You cannot, sir, take from me any thing that I will more willingly part withal: except my life, except my life, except my life.

LORD POLONIUS     Fare you well, my lord.

HAMLET             These tedious old fools!

[Enter ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

LORD POLONIUS     You go to seek the Lord Hamlet; there he is.

ROSENCRANTZ       [To POLONIUS] God save you, sir!

[Exit POLONIUS]

GUILDENSTERN      My honoured lord!

ROSENCRANTZ       My most dear lord!

HAMLET             My excellent good friends! How dost thou, Guildenstern? Ah, Rosencrantz! Good lads, how do ye both?

ROSENCRANTZ       As the indifferent children of the earth.

GUILDENSTERN      Happy, in that we are not over-happy;
On fortune's cap we are not the very button.

HAMLET             Nor the soles of her shoe?

ROSENCRANTZ        Neither, my lord.

HAMLET             Then you live about her waist, or in the middle of her favours?

GUILDENSTERN       'Faith, her privates we.

HAMLET             In the secret parts of fortune? O, most true; she is a strumpet. What's the news?

ROSENCRANTZ        None, my lord, but that the world's grown honest.

HAMLET             Then is doomsday near: but your news is not true. Let me question more in particular: what have you, my good friends, deserved at the hands of fortune, that she sends you to prison hither?

GUILDENSTERN       Prison, my lord!

HAMLET             Denmark's a prison.

ROSENCRANTZ        Then is the world one.

HAMLET             A goodly one; in which there are many confines, wards and dungeons, Denmark being one o' the worst.

ROSENCRANTZ        We think not so, my lord.

HAMLET             Why, then, 'tis none to you; for there is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so: to me it is a prison.

ROSENCRANTZ        Why then, your ambition makes it one; 'tis too narrow for your mind.

HAMLET             O God, I could be bounded in a nut shell and count myself a king of infinite space, were it not that I have bad dreams.

GUILDENSTERN       Which dreams indeed are ambition, for the very substance of the ambitious is merely the shadow of a dream.

HAMLET             A dream itself is but a shadow.

ROSENCRANTZ        Truly, and I hold ambition of so airy and light a quality that it is but a shadow's shadow.

HAMLET             Then are our beggars bodies, and our monarchs and outstretched heroes the beggars' shadows. Shall we to the court? for, by my fay, I cannot reason.

ROSENCRANTZ        |

GUILDENSTERN        | We'll wait upon you.
|

HAMLET                No such matter: I will not sort you with the rest of my servants, for, to speak to you like an honest man, I am most dreadfully attended. But, in the beaten way of friendship, what make you at Elsinore?

ROSENCRANTZ        To visit you, my lord; no other occasion.

HAMLET                Beggar that I am, I am even poor in thanks; but I thank you: and sure, dear friends, my thanks are too dear a halfpenny. Were you not sent for? Is it your own inclining? Is it a free visitation? Come, deal justly with me: come, come; nay, speak.

GUILDENSTERN        What should we say, my lord?

HAMLET                Why, any thing, but to the purpose. You were sent for; and there is a kind of confession in your looks which your modesties have not craft enough to colour:
I know the good king and queen have sent for you.

ROSENCRANTZ        To what end, my lord?

HAMLET                That you must teach me. But let me conjure you, by the rights of our fellowship, by the consonancy of our youth, by the obligation of our ever-preserved love, and by what more dear a better proposer could charge you withal, be even and direct with me, whether you were sent for, or no?

ROSENCRANTZ        [Aside to GUILDENSTERN]    What say you?

HAMLET                [Aside]    Nay, then, I have an eye of you.--If you love me, hold not off.

GUILDENSTERN        My lord, we were sent for.

HAMLET                I will tell you why; so shall my anticipation prevent your discovery, and your secrecy to the king and queen moult no feather. I have of late--but wherefore I know not--lost all my mirth, forgone all custom of exercises; and indeed it goes so heavily with my disposition that this goodly frame, the earth, seems to me a sterile promontory, this most excellent canopy, the air, look you, this brave o'erhanging firmament, this majestical roof fretted with golden fire, why, it appears no other thing to me than a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours.
What a piece of work is a man! how noble in reason!
how infinite in faculty! in form and moving how express and admirable! in action how like an angel!

in apprehension how like a god! the beauty of the world! the paragon of animals! And yet, to me, what is this quintessence of dust? man delights not me: no, nor woman neither, though by your smiling you seem to say so.

ROSENCRANTZ      My lord, there was no such stuff in my thoughts.

HAMLET            Why did you laugh then, when I said 'man delights not me'?

ROSENCRANTZ      To think, my lord, if you delight not in man, what lenten entertainment the players shall receive from you: we coted them on the way; and hither are they coming, to offer you service.

HAMLET            He that plays the king shall be welcome; his majesty shall have tribute of me; the adventurous knight shall use his foil and target; the lover shall not sigh gratis; the humourous man shall end his part in peace; the clown shall make those laugh whose lungs are tickled o' the sere; and the lady shall say her mind freely, or the blank verse shall halt for't. What players are they?

ROSENCRANTZ      Even those you were wont to take delight in, the tragedians of the city.

HAMLET            How chances it they travel? their residence, both in reputation and profit, was better both ways.

ROSENCRANTZ      I think their inhibition comes by the means of the late innovation.

HAMLET            Do they hold the same estimation they did when I was in the city? are they so followed?

ROSENCRANTZ      No, indeed, are they not.

HAMLET            How comes it? do they grow rusty?

ROSENCRANTZ      Nay, their endeavour keeps in the wonted pace: but there is, sir, an aery of children, little eyases, that cry out on the top of question, and are most tyrannically clapped for't: these are now the fashion, and so berattle the common stages--so they call them--that many wearing rapiers are afraid of goose-quills and dare scarce come thither.

HAMLET            What, are they children? who maintains 'em? how are they escoted? Will they pursue the quality no longer than they can sing? will they not say afterwards, if they should grow themselves to common players--as it is most like, if their means are no better--their writers do them wrong, to make them exclaim against their own succession?

ROSENCRANTZ 'Faith, there has been much to do on both sides; and the nation holds it no sin to tarre them to controversy: there was, for a while, no money bid for argument, unless the poet and the player went to cuffs in the question.

HAMLET Is't possible?

GUILDENSTERN O, there has been much throwing about of brains.

HAMLET Do the boys carry it away?

ROSENCRANTZ Ay, that they do, my lord; Hercules and his load too.

HAMLET It is not very strange; for mine uncle is king of Denmark, and those that would make mows at him while my father lived, give twenty, forty, fifty, an hundred ducats a-piece for his picture in little. 'Sblood, there is something in this more than natural, if philosophy could find it out.

[Flourish of trumpets within]

GUILDENSTERN There are the players.

HAMLET Gentlemen, you are welcome to Elsinore. Your hands, come then: the appurtenance of welcome is fashion and ceremony: let me comply with you in this garb, lest my extent to the players, which, I tell you, must show fairly outward, should more appear like entertainment than yours. You are welcome: but my uncle-father and aunt-mother are deceived.

GUILDENSTERN In what, my dear lord?

HAMLET I am but mad north-north-west: when the wind is southerly I know a hawk from a handsaw.

[Enter POLONIUS]

LORD POLONIUS Well be with you, gentlemen!

HAMLET Hark you, Guildenstern; and you too: at each ear a hearer: that great baby you see there is not yet out of his swaddling-clouts.

ROSENCRANTZ Happily he's the second time come to them; for they say an old man is twice a child.

HAMLET I will prophesy he comes to tell me of the players; mark it. You say right, sir: o' Monday morning; 'twas so indeed.

LORD POLONIUS     My lord, I have news to tell you.

HAMLET             My lord, I have news to tell you.
When Roscius was an actor in Rome,--

LORD POLONIUS     The actors are come hither, my lord.

HAMLET             Buz, buz!

LORD POLONIUS     Upon mine honour,--

HAMLET             Then came each actor on his ass,--

LORD POLONIUS     The best actors in the world, either for tragedy, comedy, history, pastoral, pastoral-comical, historical-pastoral, tragical-historical, tragicalcomical-historical-pastoral, scene individable, or poem unlimited: Seneca cannot be too heavy, nor Plautus too light. For the law of writ and the liberty, these are the only men.

HAMLET             O Jephthah, judge of Israel, what a treasure hadst thou!

LORD POLONIUS     What a treasure had he, my lord?

HAMLET             Why,
'One fair daughter and no more,
The which he loved passing well.'

LORD POLONIUS     [Aside] Still on my daughter.

HAMLET             Am I not i' the right, old Jephthah?

LORD POLONIUS     If you call me Jephthah, my lord, I have a daughter that I love passing well.

HAMLET             Nay, that follows not.

LORD POLONIUS     What follows, then, my lord?

HAMLET             Why,
'As by lot, God wot,'
and then, you know,
'It came to pass, as most like it was,'-- the first row of the pious chanson will show you more; for look, where my abridgement comes.

[Enter four or five Players]

You are welcome, masters; welcome, all. I am glad to see thee well. Welcome, good friends. O, my old friend! thy face is valenced since I saw thee last:
comest thou to beard me in Denmark? What, my young lady and mistress! By'r lady, your ladyship is nearer to heaven than when I saw you last, by the altitude of a chopine. Pray God, your voice, like apiece of uncurrent gold, be not cracked within the ring. Masters, you are all welcome. We'll e'en to't like French falconers, fly at any thing we see: we'll have a speech straight: come, give us a taste of your quality; come, a passionate speech.

First Player      What speech, my lord?

HAMLET            I heard thee speak me a speech once, but it was never acted; or, if it was, not above once; for the play, I remember, pleased not the million; 'twas caviare to the general: but it was--as I received it, and others, whose judgments in such matters cried in the top of mine--an excellent play, well digested in the scenes, set down with as much modesty as cunning. I remember, one said there were no sallets in the lines to make the matter savoury, nor no matter in the phrase that might indict the author of affectation; but called it an honest method, as wholesome as sweet, and by very much more handsome than fine. One speech in it I chiefly loved: 'twas Aeneas' tale to Dido; and thereabout of it especially, where he speaks of Priam's slaughter: if it live in your memory, begin at this line: let me see, let me see--
'The rugged Pyrrhus, like the Hyrcanian beast,'-- it is not so:--it begins with Pyrrhus:--
'The rugged Pyrrhus, he whose sable arms,
Black as his purpose, did the night resemble
When he lay couched in the ominous horse,
Hath now this dread and black complexion smear'd
With heraldry more dismal; head to foot
Now is he total gules; horridly trick'd
With blood of fathers, mothers, daughters, sons,
Baked and impasted with the parching streets,
That lend a tyrannous and damned light
To their lord's murder: roasted in wrath and fire,
And thus o'er-sized with coagulate gore,
With eyes like carbuncles, the hellish Pyrrhus Old grandsire Priam seeks.'
So, proceed you.

LORD POLONIUS    'Fore God, my lord, well spoken, with good accent and good discretion.

First Player      'Anon he finds him
Striking too short at Greeks; his antique sword,
Rebellious to his arm, lies where it falls,
Repugnant to command: unequal match'd,
Pyrrhus at Priam drives; in rage strikes wide;
But with the whiff and wind of his fell sword

The unnerved father falls. Then senseless Ilium, Seeming to feel this blow, with flaming top
Stoops to his base, and with a hideous crash
Takes prisoner Pyrrhus' ear: for, lo! his sword,
Which was declining on the milky head
Of reverend Priam, seem'd i' the air to stick:
So, as a painted tyrant, Pyrrhus stood,
And like a neutral to his will and matter,
Did nothing.
But, as we often see, against some storm,
A silence in the heavens, the rack stand still,
The bold winds speechless and the orb below
As hush as death, anon the dreadful thunder
Doth rend the region, so, after Pyrrhus' pause,
Aroused vengeance sets him new a-work;
And never did the Cyclops' hammers fall
On Mars's armour forged for proof eterne
With less remorse than Pyrrhus' bleeding sword
Now falls on Priam.
Out, out, thou strumpet, Fortune! All you gods,
In general synod 'take away her power;
Break all the spokes and fellies from her wheel,
And bowl the round nave down the hill of heaven,
As low as to the fiends!'

LORD POLONIUS     This is too long.

HAMLET             It shall to the barber's, with your beard. Prithee, say on: he's for a jig or a tale of bawdry, or he sleeps: say on: come to Hecuba.

First Player       'But who, O, who had seen the mobled queen--'

HAMLET             'The mobled queen?'

LORD POLONIUS     That's good; 'mobled queen' is good.

First Player       'Run barefoot up and down, threatening the flames
With bisson rheum; a clout upon that head
Where late the diadem stood, and for a robe,
About her lank and all o'er-teemed loins,
A blanket, in the alarm of fear caught up;
Who this had seen, with tongue in venom steep'd,
'Gainst Fortune's state would treason have pronounced:
But if the gods themselves did see her then
When she saw Pyrrhus make malicious sport
In mincing with his sword her husband's limbs,
The instant burst of clamour that she made,
Unless things mortal move them not at all,
Would have made milch the burning eyes of heaven,
And passion in the gods.'

LORD POLONIUS     Look, whether he has not turned his colour and has tears in's eyes. Pray you, no more.

HAMLET           'Tis well: I'll have thee speak out the rest soon.
Good my lord, will you see the players well bestowed? Do you hear, let them be well used; for they are the abstract and brief chronicles of the time: after your death you were better have a bad epitaph than their ill report while you live.

LORD POLONIUS   My lord, I will use them according to their desert.

HAMLET           God's bodykins, man, much better: use every man after his desert, and who should 'scape whipping?
Use them after your own honour and dignity: the less they deserve, the more merit is in your bounty.
Take them in.

LORD POLONIUS   Come, sirs.

HAMLET           Follow him, friends: we'll hear a play to-morrow.

[Exit POLONIUS with all the Players but the First]

Dost thou hear me, old friend; can you play the Murder of Gonzago?

First Player    Ay, my lord.

HAMLET           We'll ha't to-morrow night. You could, for a need, study a speech of some dozen or sixteen lines, which I would set down and insert in't, could you not?

First Player    Ay, my lord.

HAMLET           Very well. Follow that lord; and look you mock him not.

[Exit First Player]

My good friends, I'll leave you till night: you are welcome to Elsinore.

ROSENCRANTZ     Good my lord!

HAMLET           Ay, so, God be wi' ye;

[Exeunt ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

Now I am alone.

O, what a rogue and peasant slave am I!
Is it not monstrous that this player here,
But in a fiction, in a dream of passion,
Could force his soul so to his own conceit
That from her working all his visage wann'd,

Tears in his eyes, distraction in's aspect,
A broken voice, and his whole function suiting
With forms to his conceit? and all for nothing!
For Hecuba!

What's Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba,
That he should weep for her? What would he do,
Had he the motive and the cue for passion
That I have? He would drown the stage with tears
And cleave the general ear with horrid speech,
Make mad the guilty and appal the free,
Confound the ignorant, and amaze indeed
The very faculties of eyes and ears. Yet I,
A dull and muddy-mettled rascal, peak,
Like John-a-dreams, unpregnant of my cause,
And can say nothing; no, not for a king,
Upon whose property and most dear life
A damn'd defeat was made. Am I a coward?
Who calls me villain? breaks my pate across?
Plucks off my beard, and blows it in my face?
Tweaks me by the nose? gives me the lie i' the throat,
As deep as to the lungs? who does me this?
Ha!

'Swounds, I should take it: for it cannot be
But I am pigeon-liver'd and lack gall
To make oppression bitter, or ere this
I should have fatted all the region kites
With this slave's offal: bloody, bawdy villain!
Remorseless, treacherous, lecherous, kindless villain!
O, vengeance!

Why, what an ass am I! This is most brave,
That I, the son of a dear father murder'd,
Prompted to my revenge by heaven and hell,
Must, like a whore, unpack my heart with words,
And fall a-cursing, like a very drab,
A scullion!

Fie upon't! foh! About, my brain! I have heard
That guilty creatures sitting at a play
Have by the very cunning of the scene
Been struck so to the soul that presently
They have proclaim'd their malefactions;
For murder, though it have no tongue, will speak
With most miraculous organ. I'll have these players
Play something like the murder of my father
Before mine uncle: I'll observe his looks;
I'll tent him to the quick: if he but blench,
I know my course. The spirit that I have seen
May be the devil: and the devil hath power
To assume a pleasing shape; yea, and perhaps
Out of my weakness and my melancholy,
As he is very potent with such spirits,
Abuses me to damn me: I'll have grounds
More relative than this: the play 's the thing
Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king.

[Exit]

HAMLET

ACT III

SCENE I            A room in the castle.

[Enter KING CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, POLONIUS, OPHELIA, ROSENCRANTZ, and GUILDENSTERN]

KING CLAUDIUS    And can you, by no drift of circumstance,
Get from him why he puts on this confusion,
Grating so harshly all his days of quiet
With turbulent and dangerous lunacy?

ROSENCRANTZ      He does confess he feels himself distracted;
But from what cause he will by no means speak.

GUILDENSTERN     Nor do we find him forward to be sounded,
But, with a crafty madness, keeps aloof,
When we would bring him on to some confession
Of his true state.

QUEEN GERTRUDE                            Did he receive you well?

ROSENCRANTZ      Most like a gentleman.

GUILDENSTERN     But with much forcing of his disposition.

ROSENCRANTZ      Niggard of question; but, of our demands,
Most free in his reply.

QUEEN GERTRUDE    Did you assay him?
To any pastime?

ROSENCRANTZ      Madam, it so fell out, that certain players
We o'er-raught on the way: of these we told him;
And there did seem in him a kind of joy
To hear of it: they are about the court,
And, as I think, they have already order
This night to play before him.

LORD POLONIUS     'Tis most true:
And he beseech'd me to entreat your majesties
To hear and see the matter.

KING CLAUDIUS      With all my heart; and it doth much content me
                         To hear him so inclined.
                         Good gentlemen, give him a further edge,
                         And drive his purpose on to these delights.

ROSENCRANTZ        We shall, my lord.

[Exeunt ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

KING CLAUDIUS                      Sweet Gertrude, leave us too;
For we have closely sent for Hamlet hither,
That he, as 'twere by accident, may here
Affront Ophelia:
Her father and myself, lawful espials,
Will so bestow ourselves that, seeing, unseen,
We may of their encounter frankly judge,
And gather by him, as he is behaved,
If 't be the affliction of his love or no
That thus he suffers for.

QUEEN GERTRUDE    I shall obey you.
                         And for your part, Ophelia, I do wish
                         That your good beauties be the happy cause
                         Of Hamlet's wildness: so shall I hope your virtues
                         Will bring him to his wonted way again,
                         To both your honours.

OPHELIA             Madam, I wish it may.

[Exit QUEEN GERTRUDE]

LORD POLONIUS      Ophelia, walk you here. Gracious, so please you,
                         We will bestow ourselves.

[To OPHELIA]

                         Read on this book;
That show of such an exercise may colour
Your loneliness. We are oft to blame in this,--
'Tis too much proved--that with devotion's visage
And pious action we do sugar o'er
The devil himself.

KING CLAUDIUS      [Aside]                      O, 'tis too true!
                         How smart a lash that speech doth give my conscience!
                         The harlot's cheek, beautied with plastering art,
                         Is not more ugly to the thing that helps it
                         Than is my deed to my most painted word:
                         O heavy burthen!

LORD POLONIUS      I hear him coming: let's withdraw, my lord.

[Exeunt KING CLAUDIUS and POLONIUS]

[Enter HAMLET]

HAMLET

To be, or not to be: that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And by opposing end them? To die: to sleep;
No more; and by a sleep to say we end
The heart-ache and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to, 'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To die, to sleep;
To sleep: perchance to dream: ay, there's the rub;
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause: there's the respect
That makes calamity of so long life;
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of despised love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? who would fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscover'd country from whose bourn
No traveller returns, puzzles the will
And makes us rather bear those ills we have Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus conscience does make cowards of us all;
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action.--Soft you now!
The fair Ophelia! Nymph, in thy orisons
Be all my sins remember'd.

OPHELIA

Good my lord,
How does your honour for this many a day?

HAMLET

I humbly thank you; well, well, well.

OPHELIA

My lord, I have remembrances of yours,
That I have longed long to re-deliver;
I pray you, now receive them.

HAMLET

No, not I;
I never gave you aught.

OPHELIA

My honour'd lord, you know right well you did;
And, with them, words of so sweet breath composed
As made the things more rich: their perfume lost,
Take these again; for to the noble mind

Rich gifts wax poor when givers prove unkind.
There, my lord.

HAMLET            Ha, ha! are you honest?

OPHELIA           My lord?

HAMLET            Are you fair?

OPHELIA           What means your lordship?

HAMLET            That if you be honest and fair, your honesty should admit no discourse to your beauty.

OPHELIA           Could beauty, my lord, have better commerce than with honesty?

HAMLET            Ay, truly; for the power of beauty will sooner transform honesty from what it is to a bawd than the force of honesty can translate beauty into his likeness: this was sometime a paradox, but now the time gives it proof. I did love you once.

OPHELIA           Indeed, my lord, you made me believe so.

HAMLET            You should not have believed me; for virtue cannot so inoculate our old stock but we shall relish of it: I loved you not.

OPHELIA           I was the more deceived.

HAMLET            Get thee to a nunnery: why wouldst thou be a breeder of sinners? I am myself indifferent honest; but yet I could accuse me of such things that it were better my mother had not borne me: I am very proud, revengeful, ambitious, with more offences at my beck than I have thoughts to put them in, imagination to give them shape, or time to act them in. What should such fellows as I do crawling between earth and heaven? We are arrant knaves, all; believe none of us. Go thy ways to a nunnery.
Where's your father?

OPHELIA           At home, my lord.

HAMLET            Let the doors be shut upon him, that he may play the fool no where but in's own house. Farewell.

OPHELIA           O, help him, you sweet heavens!

HAMLET            If thou dost marry, I'll give thee this plague for thy dowry: be thou as chaste as ice, as pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny. Get thee to a nunnery, go: farewell. Or, if thou wilt needs marry, marry a fool; for wise men know well enough what monsters you make of them. To a nunnery, go, and quickly too. Farewell.

OPHELIA                   O heavenly powers, restore him!

HAMLET                   I have heard of your paintings too, well enough; God has given you one face, and you make yourselves another: you jig, you amble, and you lisp, and nick-name God's creatures, and make your wantonness your ignorance. Go to, I'll no more on't; it hath made me mad. I say, we will have no more marriages:
those that are married already, all but one, shall live; the rest shall keep as they are. To a nunnery, go.

[Exit]

OPHELIA                   O, what a noble mind is here o'erthrown!
The courtier's, soldier's, scholar's, eye, tongue, sword;
The expectancy and rose of the fair state,
The glass of fashion and the mould of form,
The observed of all observers, quite, quite down!
And I, of ladies most deject and wretched,
That suck'd the honey of his music vows,
Now see that noble and most sovereign reason,
Like sweet bells jangled, out of tune and harsh;
That unmatch'd form and feature of blown youth
Blasted with ecstasy: O, woe is me,
To have seen what I have seen, see what I see!

[Re-enter KING CLAUDIUS and POLONIUS]

KING CLAUDIUS           Love! his affections do not that way tend;
Nor what he spake, though it lack'd form a little,
Was not like madness. There's something in his soul,
O'er which his melancholy sits on brood;
And I do doubt the hatch and the disclose
Will be some danger: which for to prevent,
I have in quick determination
Thus set it down: he shall with speed to England,
For the demand of our neglected tribute
Haply the seas and countries different
With variable objects shall expel
This something-settled matter in his heart,
Whereon his brains still beating puts him thus
From fashion of himself. What think you on't?

LORD POLONIUS           It shall do well: but yet do I believe
The origin and commencement of his grief
Sprung from neglected love. How now, Ophelia!
You need not tell us what Lord Hamlet said;
We heard it all. My lord, do as you please;
But, if you hold it fit, after the play

Let his queen mother all alone entreat him
To show his grief: let her be round with him;
And I'll be placed, so please you, in the ear
Of all their conference. If she find him not,
To England send him, or confine him where Your wisdom best shall think.

KING CLAUDIUS    It shall be so:
Madness in great ones must not unwatch'd go.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT III

SCENE II        A hall in the castle.

[Enter HAMLET and Players]

HAMLET        Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounced it to you, trippingly on the tongue: but if you mouth it, as many of your players do, I had as lief the town-crier spoke my lines. Nor do not saw the air too much with your hand, thus, but use all gently;
for in the very torrent, tempest, and, as I may say,
the whirlwind of passion, you must acquire and beget a temperance that may give it smoothness. O, it offends me to the soul to hear a robustious periwig-pated fellow tear a passion to tatters, to very rags, to split the ears of the groundlings, who for the most part are capable of nothing but inexplicable dumbshows and noise: I would have such a fellow whipped for o'erdoing Termagant; it out-herods Herod: pray you, avoid it.

First Player    I warrant your honour.

HAMLET        Be not too tame neither, but let your own discretion be your tutor: suit the action to the word, the word to the action; with this special o'erstep not the modesty of nature: for any thing so overdone is from the purpose of playing, whose end, both at the first and now, was and is, to hold, as 'twere, the mirror up to nature; to show virtue her own feature, scorn her own image, and the very age and body of the time his form and pressure. Now this overdone, or come tardy off, though it make the unskilful laugh, cannot but make the judicious grieve; the censure of the which one must in your allowance o'erweigh a whole theatre of others. O, there be players that I have seen play, and heard others praise, and that highly, not to speak it profanely, that, neither having the accent of Christians nor the gait of Christian, pagan, nor man, have so strutted and bellowed that I have thought some of nature's journeymen had made men and not made them well, they imitated humanity so abominably.

First Player      I hope we have reformed that indifferently with us, sir.

HAMLET            O, reform it altogether. And let those that play your clowns speak no more than is set down for them; for there be of them that will themselves laugh, to set on some quantity of barren spectators to laugh too; though, in the mean time, some necessary question of the play be then to be considered: that's villanous, and shows a most pitiful ambition in the fool that uses it. Go, make you ready.

[Exeunt Players]

[Enter POLONIUS, ROSENCRANTZ, and GUILDENSTERN]

How now, my lord! I will the king hear this piece of work?

LORD POLONIUS    And the queen too, and that presently.

HAMLET            Bid the players make haste.

[Exit POLONIUS]

Will you two help to hasten them?

ROSENCRANTZ      |
                     | We will, my lord.
GUILDENSTERN     |

[Exeunt ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

HAMLET            What ho! Horatio!

[Enter HORATIO]

HORATIO           Here, sweet lord, at your service.

HAMLET            Horatio, thou art e'en as just a man
As e'er my conversation coped withal.

HORATIO O, my dear lord,--

HAMLET Nay, do not think I flatter;
For what advancement may I hope from thee
That no revenue hast but thy good spirits,
To feed and clothe thee? Why should the poor be flatter'd?
No, let the candied tongue lick absurd pomp,
And crook the pregnant hinges of the knee
Where thrift may follow fawning. Dost thou hear?
Since my dear soul was mistress of her choice
And could of men distinguish, her election
Hath seal'd thee for herself; for thou hast been
As one, in suffering all, that suffers nothing,
A man that fortune's buffets and rewards
Hast ta'en with equal thanks: and blest are those Whose blood and judgment are so well commingled,
That they are not a pipe for fortune's finger
To sound what stop she please. Give me that man
That is not passion's slave, and I will wear him
In my heart's core, ay, in my heart of heart,
As I do thee.--Something too much of this.--
There is a play to-night before the king;
One scene of it comes near the circumstance
Which I have told thee of my father's death:
I prithee, when thou seest that act afoot,
Even with the very comment of thy soul
Observe mine uncle: if his occulted guilt
Do not itself unkennel in one speech,
It is a damned ghost that we have seen,
And my imaginations are as foul
As Vulcan's stithy. Give him heedful note;
For I mine eyes will rivet to his face,
And after we will both our judgments join
In censure of his seeming.

HORATIO Well, my lord:
If he steal aught the whilst this play is playing,
And 'scape detecting, I will pay the theft.

HAMLET They are coming to the play; I must be idle:
Get you a place.

[Danish march. A flourish. Enter KING CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, POLONIUS, OPHELIA, ROSENCRANTZ, GUILDENSTERN, and others]

KING CLAUDIUS How fares our cousin Hamlet?

HAMLET Excellent, i' faith; of the chameleon's dish: I eat the air, promise-crammed: you cannot feed capons so.

KING CLAUDIUS I have nothing with this answer, Hamlet; these words are not mine.

HAMLET                    No, nor mine now.

                          [To POLONIUS]

                          My lord, you played once i' the university, you say?

LORD POLONIUS        That did I, my lord; and was accounted a good actor.

HAMLET                    What did you enact?

LORD POLONIUS        I did enact Julius Caesar: I was killed i' the Capitol; Brutus killed me.

HAMLET                    It was a brute part of him to kill so capital a calf there. Be the players ready?

ROSENCRANTZ        Ay, my lord; they stay upon your patience.

QUEEN GERTRUDE      Come hither, my dear Hamlet, sit by me.

HAMLET                    No, good mother, here's metal more attractive.

LORD POLONIUS        [To KING CLAUDIUS] O, ho! do you mark that?

HAMLET                    Lady, shall I lie in your lap?

                          [Lying down at OPHELIA's feet]

OPHELIA                No, my lord.

HAMLET                    I mean, my head upon your lap?

OPHELIA                Ay, my lord.

HAMLET                    Do you think I meant country matters?

OPHELIA                I think nothing, my lord.

HAMLET                    That's a fair thought to lie between maids' legs.

OPHELIA                What is, my lord?

HAMLET                    Nothing.

OPHELIA                You are merry, my lord.

HAMLET                    Who, I?

OPHELIA                Ay, my lord.

HAMLET                    O God, your only jig-maker. What should a man do but be merry? for, look you, how cheerfully my mother looks, and my father died within these two hours.

OPHELIA           Nay, 'tis twice two months, my lord.

HAMLET           So long? Nay then, let the devil wear black, for I'll have a suit of sables. O heavens! die two months ago, and not forgotten yet? Then there's hope a great man's memory may outlive his life half a year: but, by'r lady, he must build churches, then; or else shall he suffer not thinking on, with the hobby-horse, whose epitaph is 'For, O, for, O, the hobby-horse is forgot.'

[Hautboys play. The dumb-show enters]

[Enter a King and a Queen very lovingly; the Queen embracing him, and he her. She kneels, and makes show of protestation unto him. He takes her up, and declines his head upon her neck: lays him down upon a bank of flowers: she, seeing him asleep, leaves him. Anon comes in a fellow, takes off his crown, kisses it, and pours poison in the King's ears, and exit. The Queen returns; finds the King dead, and makes passionate action. The Poisoner, with some two or three Mutes, comes in again, seeming to lament with her. The dead body is carried away. The Poisoner wooes the Queen with gifts: she seems loath and unwilling awhile, but in the end accepts his love]

[Exeunt]

OPHELIA           What means this, my lord?

HAMLET           Marry, this is miching mallecho; it means mischief.

OPHELIA           Belike this show imports the argument of the play.

[Enter Prologue]

HAMLET           We shall know by this fellow: the players cannot keep counsel; they'll tell all.

OPHELIA           Will he tell us what this show meant?

HAMLET           Ay, or any show that you'll show him: be not you ashamed to show, he'll not shame to tell you what it means.

OPHELIA           You are naught, you are naught: I'll mark the play.

Prologue               For us, and for our tragedy,
Here stooping to your clemency,
We beg your hearing patiently.

[Exit]

HAMLET           Is this a prologue, or the posy of a ring?

OPHELIA           'Tis brief, my lord.

HAMLET           As woman's love.

[Enter two Players, King and Queen]

Player King       Full thirty times hath Phoebus' cart gone round
Neptune's salt wash and Tellus' orbed ground,
And thirty dozen moons with borrow'd sheen
About the world have times twelve thirties been,
Since love our hearts and Hymen did our hands
Unite commutual in most sacred bands.

Player Queen      So many journeys may the sun and moon
Make us again count o'er ere love be done!
But, woe is me, you are so sick of late,
So far from cheer and from your former state,
That I distrust you. Yet, though I distrust, Discomfort you, my lord, it nothing must:
For women's fear and love holds quantity;
In neither aught, or in extremity.
Now, what my love is, proof hath made you know;
And as my love is sized, my fear is so:
Where love is great, the littlest doubts are fear;
Where little fears grow great, great love grows there.

Player King       'Faith, I must leave thee, love, and shortly too;
My operant powers their functions leave to do:
And thou shalt live in this fair world behind,
Honour'd, beloved; and haply one as kind
For husband shalt thou--

Player Queen      O, confound the rest!
Such love must needs be treason in my breast:
In second husband let me be accurst!
None wed the second but who kill'd the first.

HAMLET           [Aside] Wormwood, wormwood.

Player Queen      The instances that second marriage move
Are base respects of thrift, but none of love:
A second time I kill my husband dead,
When second husband kisses me in bed.

Player King       I do believe you think what now you speak;
But what we do determine oft we break.
Purpose is but the slave to memory,
Of violent birth, but poor validity;
Which now, like fruit unripe, sticks on the tree;
But fall, unshaken, when they mellow be.

Most necessary 'tis that we forget
To pay ourselves what to ourselves is debt:
What to ourselves in passion we propose,
The passion ending, doth the purpose lose.
The violence of either grief or joy
Their own enactures with themselves destroy:
Where joy most revels, grief doth most lament;
Grief joys, joy grieves, on slender accident.
This world is not for aye, nor 'tis not strange
That even our loves should with our fortunes change;
For 'tis a question left us yet to prove,
Whether love lead fortune, or else fortune love.
The great man down, you mark his favourite flies;
The poor advanced makes friends of enemies.
And hitherto doth love on fortune tend;
For who not needs shall never lack a friend,
And who in want a hollow friend doth try,
Directly seasons him his enemy.
But, orderly to end where I begun,
Our wills and fates do so contrary run
That our devices still are overthrown;
Our thoughts are ours, their ends none of our own:
So think thou wilt no second husband wed;
But die thy thoughts when thy first lord is dead.

Player Queen        Nor earth to me give food, nor heaven light!
Sport and repose lock from me day and night!
To desperation turn my trust and hope!
An anchor's cheer in prison be my scope!
Each opposite that blanks the face of joy
Meet what I would have well and it destroy!
Both here and hence pursue me lasting strife,
If, once a widow, ever I be wife!

HAMLET                If she should break it now!

Player King        'Tis deeply sworn. Sweet, leave me here awhile;
My spirits grow dull, and fain I would beguile
The tedious day with sleep.

[Sleeps]

Player Queen        Sleep rock thy brain,
And never come mischance between us twain!

[Exit]

HAMLET                Madam, how like you this play?

QUEEN GERTRUDE    The lady protests too much, methinks.

HAMLET                O, but she'll keep her word.

KING CLAUDIUS      Have you heard the argument? Is there no offence in 't?

HAMLET           No, no, they do but jest, poison in jest; no offence i' the world.

KING CLAUDIUS   What do you call the play?

HAMLET           The Mouse-trap. Marry, how? Tropically. This play is the image of a murder done in Vienna: Gonzago is the duke's name; his wife, Baptista: you shall see anon; 'tis a knavish piece of work: but what o' that? your majesty and we that have free souls, it touches us not: let the galled jade wince, our withers are unwrung.

[Enter LUCIANUS]

This is one Lucianus, nephew to the king.

OPHELIA          You are as good as a chorus, my lord.

HAMLET           I could interpret between you and your love, if I could see the puppets dallying.

OPHELIA          You are keen, my lord, you are keen.

HAMLET           It would cost you a groaning to take off my edge.

OPHELIA          Still better, and worse.

HAMLET           So you must take your husbands. Begin, murderer; pox, leave thy damnable faces, and begin. Come:
'the croaking raven doth bellow for revenge.'

LUCIANUS               Thoughts black, hands apt, drugs fit, and time agreeing;

Confederate season, else no creature seeing;
Thou mixture rank, of midnight weeds collected,
With Hecate's ban thrice blasted, thrice infected,
Thy natural magic and dire property,
On wholesome life usurp immediately.

[Pours the poison into the sleeper's ears]

HAMLET           He poisons him i' the garden for's estate. His name's Gonzago: the story is extant, and writ in choice Italian: you shall see anon how the murderer gets the love of Gonzago's wife.

OPHELIA          The king rises.

HAMLET           What, frightened with false fire!

QUEEN GERTRUDE   How fares my lord?

LORD POLONIUS      Give o'er the play.

KING CLAUDIUS      Give me some light: away!

All                    Lights, lights, lights!

[Exeunt all but HAMLET and HORATIO]

HAMLET                Why, let the stricken deer go weep,
The hart ungalled play;
For some must watch, while some must sleep:
So runs the world away.
Would not this, sir, and a forest of feathers-- if the rest of my fortunes turn Turk with me--with two Provincial roses on my razed shoes, get me a fellowship in a cry of players, sir?

HORATIO              Half a share.

HAMLET                A whole one, I.
For thou dost know, O Damon dear,
This realm dismantled was
Of Jove himself; and now reigns here
A very, very--pajock.

HORATIO              You might have rhymed.

HAMLET                O good Horatio, I'll take the ghost's word for a thousand pound. Didst perceive?

HORATIO              Very well, my lord.

HAMLET                Upon the talk of the poisoning?

HORATIO              I did very well note him.

HAMLET                Ah, ha! Come, some music! come, the recorders!
For if the king like not the comedy,
Why then, belike, he likes it not, perdy.
Come, some music!

[Re-enter ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

GUILDENSTERN        Good my lord, vouchsafe me a word with you.

HAMLET                Sir, a whole history.

GUILDENSTERN        The king, sir,--

HAMLET                Ay, sir, what of him?

GUILDENSTERN        Is in his retirement marvellous distempered.

HAMLET                With drink, sir?

GUILDENSTERN      No, my lord, rather with choler.

HAMLET              Your wisdom should show itself more richer to signify this to his doctor; for, for me to put him to his purgation would perhaps plunge him into far more choler.

GUILDENSTERN      Good my lord, put your discourse into some frame and start not so wildly from my affair.

HAMLET              I am tame, sir: pronounce.

GUILDENSTERN      The queen, your mother, in most great affliction of spirit, hath sent me to you.

HAMLET              You are welcome.

GUILDENSTERN      Nay, good my lord, this courtesy is not of the right breed. If it shall please you to make me a wholesome answer, I will do your mother's commandment: if not, your pardon and my return shall be the end of my business.

HAMLET              Sir, I cannot.

GUILDENSTERN      What, my lord?

HAMLET              Make you a wholesome answer; my wit's diseased: but,
sir, such answer as I can make, you shall command;
or, rather, as you say, my mother: therefore no more, but to the matter: my mother, you say,--

ROSENCRANTZ      Then thus she says; your behavior hath struck her into amazement and admiration.

HAMLET              O wonderful son, that can so astonish a mother! But is there no sequel at the heels of this mother's admiration? Impart.

ROSENCRANTZ      She desires to speak with you in her closet, ere you go to bed.

HAMLET              We shall obey, were she ten times our mother. Have you any further trade with us?

ROSENCRANTZ      My lord, you once did love me.

HAMLET              So I do still, by these pickers and stealers.

ROSENCRANTZ      Good my lord, what is your cause of distemper? you do, surely, bar the door upon your own liberty, if you deny your griefs to your friend.

HAMLET                Sir, I lack advancement.

ROSENCRANTZ        How can that be, when you have the voice of the king himself for your succession in Denmark?

HAMLET                Ay, but sir, 'While the grass grows,'--the proverb is something musty.

                      [Re-enter Players with recorders]

                      O, the recorders! let me see one. To withdraw with you:--why do you go about to recover the wind of me, as if you would drive me into a toil?

GUILDENSTERN        O, my lord, if my duty be too bold, my love is too unmannerly.

HAMLET                I do not well understand that. Will you play upon this pipe?

GUILDENSTERN        My lord, I cannot.

HAMLET                I pray you.

GUILDENSTERN        Believe me, I cannot.

HAMLET                I do beseech you.

GUILDENSTERN        I know no touch of it, my lord.

HAMLET                'Tis as easy as lying: govern these ventages with your fingers and thumb, give it breath with your mouth, and it will discourse most eloquent music. Look you, these are the stops.

GUILDENSTERN        But these cannot I command to any utterance of harmony; I have not the skill.

HAMLET                Why, look you now, how unworthy a thing you make of me! You would play upon me; you would seem to know my stops; you would pluck out the heart of my mystery; you would sound me from my lowest note to the top of my compass: and there is much music, excellent voice, in this little organ; yet cannot you make it speak. 'Sblood, do you think I am easier to be played on than a pipe? Call me what instrument you will, though you can fret me, yet you cannot play upon me.

                      [Enter POLONIUS]

                      God bless you, sir!

LORD POLONIUS        My lord, the queen would speak with you, and presently.

HAMLET            Do you see yonder cloud that's almost in shape of a camel?

LORD POLONIUS    By the mass, and 'tis like a camel, indeed.

HAMLET            Methinks it is like a weasel.

LORD POLONIUS    It is backed like a weasel.

HAMLET            Or like a whale?

LORD POLONIUS    Very like a whale.

HAMLET            Then I will come to my mother by and by. They fool me to the top of my bent. I will come by and by.

LORD POLONIUS    I will say so.

HAMLET            By and by is easily said.

[Exit POLONIUS]

Leave me, friends.

[Exeunt all but HAMLET]

Tis now the very witching time of night,
When churchyards yawn and hell itself breathes out
Contagion to this world: now could I drink hot blood,
And do such bitter business as the day
Would quake to look on. Soft! now to my mother.
O heart, lose not thy nature; let not ever
The soul of Nero enter this firm bosom:
Let me be cruel, not unnatural:
I will speak daggers to her, but use none;
My tongue and soul in this be hypocrites;
How in my words soever she be shent,
To give them seals never, my soul, consent!

[Exit]

HAMLET

ACT III

SCENE III        A room in the castle.

[Exit POLONIUS]

O, my offence is rank it smells to heaven;
It hath the primal eldest curse upon't,
A brother's murder. Pray can I not,
Though inclination be as sharp as will:
My stronger guilt defeats my strong intent;
And, like a man to double business bound,
I stand in pause where I shall first begin,
And both neglect. What if this cursed hand
Were thicker than itself with brother's blood,
Is there not rain enough in the sweet heavens
To wash it white as snow? Whereto serves mercy
But to confront the visage of offence?
And what's in prayer but this two-fold force,
To be forestalled ere we come to fall,
Or pardon'd being down? Then I'll look up;
My fault is past. But, O, what form of prayer
Can serve my turn? 'Forgive me my foul murder'?
That cannot be; since I am still possess'd
Of those effects for which I did the murder,
My crown, mine own ambition and my queen.
May one be pardon'd and retain the offence?
In the corrupted currents of this world
Offence's gilded hand may shove by justice,
And oft 'tis seen the wicked prize itself
Buys out the law: but 'tis not so above;
There is no shuffling, there the action lies
In his true nature; and we ourselves compell'd,
Even to the teeth and forehead of our faults,
To give in evidence. What then? what rests?
Try what repentance can: what can it not?
Yet what can it when one can not repent?
O wretched state! O bosom black as death!
O limed soul, that, struggling to be free,
Art more engaged! Help, angels! Make assay!
Bow, stubborn knees; and, heart with strings of steel,
Be soft as sinews of the newborn babe!
All may be well.

[Retires and kneels]

[Enter HAMLET]

HAMLET

Now might I do it pat, now he is praying;
And now I'll do't. And so he goes to heaven;
And so am I revenged. That would be scann'd:
A villain kills my father; and for that,
I, his sole son, do this same villain send
To heaven.
O, this is hire and salary, not revenge.
He took my father grossly, full of bread;
With all his crimes broad blown, as flush as May;

And how his audit stands who knows save heaven?
But in our circumstance and course of thought,
'Tis heavy with him: and am I then revenged,
To take him in the purging of his soul,
When he is fit and season'd for his passage?
No!
Up, sword; and know thou a more horrid hent:
When he is drunk asleep, or in his rage,
Or in the incestuous pleasure of his bed;
At gaming, swearing, or about some act
That has no relish of salvation in't;
Then trip him, that his heels may kick at heaven,
And that his soul may be as damn'd and black
As hell, whereto it goes. My mother stays:
This physic but prolongs thy sickly days.

[Exit]

KING CLAUDIUS    [Rising] My words fly up, my thoughts remain below:
Words without thoughts never to heaven go.

[Exit]

HAMLET

ACT III

SCENE IV            The Queen's closet.

[Enter QUEEN MARGARET and POLONIUS]

LORD POLONIUS    He will come straight. Look you lay home to him:
Tell him his pranks have been too broad to bear with,
And that your grace hath screen'd and stood between Much heat and him. I'll sconce me even here.
Pray you, be round with him.

HAMLET            [Within] Mother, mother, mother!

QUEEN GERTRUDE   I'll warrant you,
Fear me not: withdraw, I hear him coming.

[POLONIUS hides behind the arras]

[Enter HAMLET]

HAMLET            Now, mother, what's the matter?

QUEEN GERTRUDE Hamlet, thou hast thy father much offended.

HAMLET Mother, you have my father much offended.

QUEEN GERTRUDE Come, come, you answer with an idle tongue.

HAMLET Go, go, you question with a wicked tongue.

QUEEN GERTRUDE Why, how now, Hamlet!

HAMLET What's the matter now?

QUEEN GERTRUDE Have you forgot me?

HAMLET No, by the rood, not so:
You are the queen, your husband's brother's wife;
And--would it were not so!--you are my mother.

QUEEN GERTRUDE Nay, then, I'll set those to you that can speak.

HAMLET Come, come, and sit you down; you shall not budge;
You go not till I set you up a glass
Where you may see the inmost part of you.

QUEEN GERTRUDE What wilt thou do? thou wilt not murder me?
Help, help, ho!

LORD POLONIUS [Behind] What, ho! help, help, help!

HAMLET [Drawing] How now! a rat? Dead, for a ducat, dead!

[Makes a pass through the arras]

LORD POLONIUS [Behind] O, I am slain!

[Falls and dies]

QUEEN GERTRUDE O me, what hast thou done?

HAMLET Nay, I know not:
Is it the king?

QUEEN GERTRUDE O, what a rash and bloody deed is this!

HAMLET A bloody deed! almost as bad, good mother,
As kill a king, and marry with his brother.

QUEEN GERTRUDE As kill a king!

HAMLET Ay, lady, 'twas my word.

[Lifts up the array and discovers POLONIUS]

Thou wretched, rash, intruding fool, farewell!
I took thee for thy better: take thy fortune;
Thou find'st to be too busy is some danger.
Leave wringing of your hands: peace! sit you down,
And let me wring your heart; for so I shall,
If it be made of penetrable stuff,
If damned custom have not brass'd it so
That it is proof and bulwark against sense.

QUEEN GERTRUDE    What have I done, that thou darest wag thy tongue
In noise so rude against me?

HAMLET            Such an act
That blurs the grace and blush of modesty,
Calls virtue hypocrite, takes off the rose
From the fair forehead of an innocent love
And sets a blister there, makes marriage-vows
As false as dicers' oaths: O, such a deed
As from the body of contraction plucks
The very soul, and sweet religion makes
A rhapsody of words: heaven's face doth glow:
Yea, this solidity and compound mass,
With tristful visage, as against the doom,
Is thought-sick at the act.

QUEEN GERTRUDE    Ay me, what act,
That roars so loud, and thunders in the index?

HAMLET            Look here, upon this picture, and on this,
The counterfeit presentment of two brothers.
See, what a grace was seated on this brow;
Hyperion's curls; the front of Jove himself;
An eye like Mars, to threaten and command;
A station like the herald Mercury
New-lighted on a heaven-kissing hill;
A combination and a form indeed,
Where every god did seem to set his seal,
To give the world assurance of a man:
This was your husband. Look you now, what follows:
Here is your husband; like a mildew'd ear,
Blasting his wholesome brother. Have you eyes?
Could you on this fair mountain leave to feed,
And batten on this moor? Ha! have you eyes?
You cannot call it love; for at your age
The hey-day in the blood is tame, it's humble,
And waits upon the judgment: and what judgment
Would step from this to this? Sense, sure, you have,
Else could you not have motion; but sure, that sense
Is apoplex'd; for madness would not err,
Nor sense to ecstasy was ne'er so thrall'd
But it reserved some quantity of choice,
To serve in such a difference. What devil was't
That thus hath cozen'd you at hoodman-blind?
Eyes without feeling, feeling without sight,

Ears without hands or eyes, smelling sans all,
Or but a sickly part of one true sense
Could not so mope.
O shame! where is thy blush? Rebellious hell,
If thou canst mutine in a matron's bones,
To flaming youth let virtue be as wax,
And melt in her own fire: proclaim no shame
When the compulsive ardour gives the charge,
Since frost itself as actively doth burn
And reason panders will.

QUEEN GERTRUDE O Hamlet, speak no more:
Thou turn'st mine eyes into my very soul;
And there I see such black and grained spots
As will not leave their tinct.

HAMLET Nay, but to live
In the rank sweat of an enseamed bed,
Stew'd in corruption, honeying and making love
Over the nasty sty,--

QUEEN GERTRUDE O, speak to me no more;
These words, like daggers, enter in mine ears;
No more, sweet Hamlet!

HAMLET A murderer and a villain;
A slave that is not twentieth part the tithe
Of your precedent lord; a vice of kings;
A cutpurse of the empire and the rule,
That from a shelf the precious diadem stole,
And put it in his pocket!

QUEEN GERTRUDE No more!

HAMLET A king of shreds and patches,--

[Enter Ghost]

Save me, and hover o'er me with your wings,
You heavenly guards! What would your gracious figure?

QUEEN GERTRUDE Alas, he's mad!

HAMLET Do you not come your tardy son to chide,
That, lapsed in time and passion, lets go by
The important acting of your dread command? O, say!

Ghost Do not forget: this visitation
Is but to whet thy almost blunted purpose.
But, look, amazement on thy mother sits:
O, step between her and her fighting soul:
Conceit in weakest bodies strongest works:
Speak to her, Hamlet.

HAMLET                   How is it with you, lady?

QUEEN GERTRUDE       Alas, how is't with you,
That you do bend your eye on vacancy
And with the incorporal air do hold discourse?
Forth at your eyes your spirits wildly peep;
And, as the sleeping soldiers in the alarm,
Your bedded hair, like life in excrements,
Starts up, and stands on end. O gentle son,
Upon the heat and flame of thy distemper
Sprinkle cool patience. Whereon do you look?

HAMLET                   On him, on him! Look you, how pale he glares!
His form and cause conjoin'd, preaching to stones,
Would make them capable. Do not look upon me;
Lest with this piteous action you convert
My stern effects: then what I have to do
Will want true colour; tears perchance for blood.

QUEEN GERTRUDE       To whom do you speak this?

HAMLET                   Do you see nothing there?

QUEEN GERTRUDE       Nothing at all; yet all that is I see.

HAMLET                   Nor did you nothing hear?

QUEEN GERTRUDE       No, nothing but ourselves.

HAMLET                   Why, look you there! look, how it steals away!
My father, in his habit as he lived!
Look, where he goes, even now, out at the portal!

[Exit Ghost]

QUEEN GERTRUDE       This the very coinage of your brain:
This bodiless creation ecstasy
Is very cunning in.

HAMLET                   Ecstasy!
My pulse, as yours, doth temperately keep time,
And makes as healthful music: it is not madness
That I have utter'd: bring me to the test,
And I the matter will re-word; which madness
Would gambol from. Mother, for love of grace,
Lay not that mattering unction to your soul,
That not your trespass, but my madness speaks:
It will but skin and film the ulcerous place,
Whilst rank corruption, mining all within,
Infects unseen. Confess yourself to heaven;
Repent what's past; avoid what is to come;
And do not spread the compost on the weeds,
To make them ranker. Forgive me this my virtue;
For in the fatness of these pursy times

Virtue itself of vice must pardon beg,
Yea, curb and woo for leave to do him good.

QUEEN GERTRUDE O Hamlet, thou hast cleft my heart in twain.

HAMLET O, throw away the worser part of it,
And live the purer with the other half.
Good night: but go not to mine uncle's bed;
Assume a virtue, if you have it not.
That monster, custom, who all sense doth eat,
Of habits devil, is angel yet in this,
That to the use of actions fair and good
He likewise gives a frock or livery,
That aptly is put on. Refrain to-night,
And that shall lend a kind of easiness
To the next abstinence: the next more easy;
For use almost can change the stamp of nature,
And either [ ] the devil, or throw him out
With wondrous potency. Once more, good night:
And when you are desirous to be bless'd,
I'll blessing beg of you. For this same lord,

[Pointing to POLONIUS]

I do repent: but heaven hath pleased it so,
To punish me with this and this with me,
That I must be their scourge and minister.
I will bestow him, and will answer well
The death I gave him. So, again, good night.
I must be cruel, only to be kind:
Thus bad begins and worse remains behind.
One word more, good lady.

QUEEN GERTRUDE What shall I do?

HAMLET Not this, by no means, that I bid you do:
Let the bloat king tempt you again to bed;
Pinch wanton on your cheek; call you his mouse;
And let him, for a pair of reechy kisses,
Or paddling in your neck with his damn'd fingers,
Make you to ravel all this matter out,
That I essentially am not in madness,
But mad in craft. 'Twere good you let him know;
For who, that's but a queen, fair, sober, wise,
Would from a paddock, from a bat, a gib,
Such dear concernings hide? who would do so?
No, in despite of sense and secrecy,
Unpeg the basket on the house's top.
Let the birds fly, and, like the famous ape,
To try conclusions, in the basket creep,
And break your own neck down.

QUEEN GERTRUDE Be thou assured, if words be made of breath,
And breath of life, I have no life to breathe

What thou hast said to me.

HAMLET I must to England; you know that?

QUEEN GERTRUDE Alack,
I had forgot: 'tis so concluded on.

HAMLET There's letters seal'd: and my two schoolfellows,
Whom I will trust as I will adders fang'd,
They bear the mandate; they must sweep my way,
And marshal me to knavery. Let it work;
For 'tis the sport to have the engineer
Hoist with his own petard: and 't shall go hard
But I will delve one yard below their mines,
And blow them at the moon: O, 'tis most sweet,
When in one line two crafts directly meet.
This man shall set me packing:
I'll lug the guts into the neighbour room.
Mother, good night. Indeed this counsellor
Is now most still, most secret and most grave,
Who was in life a foolish prating knave.
Come, sir, to draw toward an end with you.
Good night, mother.

[Exeunt severally; HAMLET dragging in POLONIUS]

HAMLET

ACT IV

SCENE I A room in the castle.

[Enter KING CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, ROSENCRANTZ,
and GUILDENSTERN]

KING CLAUDIUS There's matter in these sighs, these profound heaves:
You must translate: 'tis fit we understand them.
Where is your son?

QUEEN GERTRUDE Bestow this place on us a little while.

[Exeunt ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

Ah, my good lord, what have I seen to-night!

KING CLAUDIUS What, Gertrude? How does Hamlet?

QUEEN GERTRUDE Mad as the sea and wind, when both contend
Which is the mightier: in his lawless fit,
Behind the arras hearing something stir,
Whips out his rapier, cries, 'A rat, a rat!'
And, in this brainish apprehension, kills
The unseen good old man.

KING CLAUDIUS O heavy deed!
It had been so with us, had we been there:
His liberty is full of threats to all;
To you yourself, to us, to every one.
Alas, how shall this bloody deed be answer'd?
It will be laid to us, whose providence
Should have kept short, restrain'd and out of haunt,
This mad young man: but so much was our love,
We would not understand what was most fit;
But, like the owner of a foul disease,
To keep it from divulging, let it feed
Even on the pith of Life. Where is he gone?

QUEEN GERTRUDE To draw apart the body he hath kill'd:
O'er whom his very madness, like some ore
Among a mineral of metals base,
Shows itself pure; he weeps for what is done.

KING CLAUDIUS O Gertrude, come away!
The sun no sooner shall the mountains touch,
But we will ship him hence: and this vile deed
We must, with all our majesty and skill,
Both countenance and excuse. Ho, Guildenstern!

[Re-enter ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

Friends both, go join you with some further aid:
Hamlet in madness hath Polonius slain,
And from his mother's closet hath he dragg'd him:
Go seek him out; speak fair, and bring the body
Into the chapel. I pray you, haste in this.

[Exeunt ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

Come, Gertrude, we'll call up our wisest friends;
And let them know, both what we mean to do,
And what's untimely done [ ]
Whose whisper o'er the world's diameter,
As level as the cannon to his blank,
Transports his poison'd shot, may miss our name,
And hit the woundless air. O, come away!
My soul is full of discord and dismay.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT IV

SCENE II            Another room in the castle.

[Enter HAMLET]

HAMLET            Safely stowed.

ROSENCRANTZ:     |
                  |     [Within]   Hamlet! Lord Hamlet!
GUILDENSTERN:    |

HAMLET            What noise? who calls on Hamlet?
                  O, here they come.

[Enter ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

ROSENCRANTZ       What have you done, my lord, with the dead body?

HAMLET            Compounded it with dust, whereto 'tis kin.

ROSENCRANTZ       Tell us where 'tis, that we may take it thence
                  And bear it to the chapel.

HAMLET            Do not believe it.

ROSENCRANTZ       Believe what?

HAMLET            That I can keep your counsel and not mine own.
                  Besides, to be demanded of a sponge! what replication should be made by the son of a king?

ROSENCRANTZ       Take you me for a sponge, my lord?

HAMLET            Ay, sir, that soaks up the king's countenance, his rewards, his authorities. But such officers do the king best service in the end: he keeps them, like an ape, in the corner of his jaw; first mouthed, to be last swallowed: when he needs what you have gleaned, it is but squeezing you, and, sponge, you shall be dry again.

ROSENCRANTZ       I understand you not, my lord.

HAMLET            I am glad of it: a knavish speech sleeps in a foolish ear.

ROSENCRANTZ      My lord, you must tell us where the body is, and go with us to the king.

HAMLET            The body is with the king, but the king is not with the body. The king is a thing--

GUILDENSTERN    A thing, my lord!

HAMLET            Of nothing: bring me to him. Hide fox, and all after.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT IV

SCENE III        Another room in the castle.

[Enter KING CLAUDIUS, attended]

KING CLAUDIUS    I have sent to seek him, and to find the body.
How dangerous is it that this man goes loose!
Yet must not we put the strong law on him:
He's loved of the distracted multitude,
Who like not in their judgment, but their eyes;
And where tis so, the offender's scourge is weigh'd,
But never the offence. To bear all smooth and even,
This sudden sending him away must seem Deliberate pause: diseases desperate grown
By desperate appliance are relieved,
Or not at all.

[Enter ROSENCRANTZ]

How now! what hath befall'n?

ROSENCRANTZ      Where the dead body is bestow'd, my lord,
We cannot get from him.

KING CLAUDIUS    But where is he?

ROSENCRANTZ      Without, my lord; guarded, to know your pleasure.

KING CLAUDIUS    Bring him before us.

KING CLAUDIUS     Ay, Hamlet.

HAMLET             Good.

KING CLAUDIUS     So is it, if thou knew'st our purposes.

HAMLET             I see a cherub that sees them. But, come; for England! Farewell, dear mother.

KING CLAUDIUS     Thy loving father, Hamlet.

HAMLET             My mother: father and mother is man and wife; man and wife is one flesh; and so, my mother. Come, for England!

[Exit]

KING CLAUDIUS     Follow him at foot; tempt him with speed aboard;
Delay it not; I'll have him hence to-night:
Away! for every thing is seal'd and done
That else leans on the affair: pray you, make haste.

[Exeunt ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN]

And, England, if my love thou hold'st at aught--
As my great power thereof may give thee sense,
Since yet thy cicatrice looks raw and red
After the Danish sword, and thy free awe
Pays homage to us--thou mayst not coldly set
Our sovereign process; which imports at full,
By letters congruing to that effect,
The present death of Hamlet. Do it, England;
For like the hectic in my blood he rages,
And thou must cure me: till I know 'tis done,
Howe'er my haps, my joys were ne'er begun.

[Exit]

HAMLET

ACT IV

SCENE IV           A plain in Denmark.

[Enter FORTINBRAS, a Captain, and Soldiers, marching]

HAMLET

I'll be with you straight go a little before.

[Exeunt all except HAMLET]

How all occasions do inform against me,
And spur my dull revenge! What is a man,
If his chief good and market of his time
Be but to sleep and feed? a beast, no more.
Sure, he that made us with such large discourse,
Looking before and after, gave us not
That capability and god-like reason
To fust in us unused. Now, whether it be Bestial oblivion, or some craven scruple
Of thinking too precisely on the event,
A thought which, quarter'd, hath but one part wisdom
And ever three parts coward, I do not know
Why yet I live to say 'This thing's to do;'
Sith I have cause and will and strength and means
To do't. Examples gross as earth exhort me:
Witness this army of such mass and charge
Led by a delicate and tender prince,
Whose spirit with divine ambition puff'd
Makes mouths at the invisible event,
Exposing what is mortal and unsure
To all that fortune, death and danger dare,
Even for an egg-shell. Rightly to be great
Is not to stir without great argument,
But greatly to find quarrel in a straw
When honour's at the stake. How stand I then,
That have a father kill'd, a mother stain'd,
Excitements of my reason and my blood,
And let all sleep? while, to my shame, I see
The imminent death of twenty thousand men,
That, for a fantasy and trick of fame,
Go to their graves like beds, fight for a plot
Whereon the numbers cannot try the cause,
Which is not tomb enough and continent
To hide the slain? O, from this time forth,
My thoughts be bloody, or be nothing worth!

[Exit]

HAMLET

ACT IV

SCENE V

Elsinore. A room in the castle.

[Enter QUEEN GERTRUDE, HORATIO, and a Gentleman]

QUEEN GERTRUDE I will not speak with her.

Gentleman She is importunate, indeed distract:
Her mood will needs be pitied.

QUEEN GERTRUDE What would she have?

Gentleman She speaks much of her father; says she hears There's tricks i' the world; and hems, and beats her heart;

Spurns enviously at straws; speaks things in doubt,
That carry but half sense: her speech is nothing,
Yet the unshaped use of it doth move
The hearers to collection; they aim at it,
And botch the words up fit to their own thoughts;
Which, as her winks, and nods, and gestures
yield them,
Indeed would make one think there might be thought,
Though nothing sure, yet much unhappily.

HORATIO 'Twere good she were spoken with; for she may strew
Dangerous conjectures in ill-breeding minds.

QUEEN GERTRUDE Let her come in.

[Exit HORATIO]

To my sick soul, as sin's true nature is,
Each toy seems prologue to some great amiss:
So full of artless jealousy is guilt,
It spills itself in fearing to be spilt.

[Re-enter HORATIO, with OPHELIA]

OPHELIA Where is the beauteous majesty of Denmark?

QUEEN GERTRUDE How now, Ophelia!

OPHELIA [Sings]

How should I your true love know
From another one?
By his cockle hat and staff,
And his sandal shoon.

QUEEN GERTRUDE Alas, sweet lady, what imports this song?

OPHELIA Say you? nay, pray you, mark.

[Sings]

He is dead and gone, lady,
He is dead and gone;
At his head a grass-green turf,
At his heels a stone.

QUEEN GERTRUDE    Nay, but, Ophelia,--

OPHELIA            Pray you, mark.

[Sings]

White his shroud as the mountain snow,--

[Enter KING CLAUDIUS]

QUEEN GERTRUDE    Alas, look here, my lord.

OPHELIA            [Sings]

Larded with sweet flowers
Which bewept to the grave did go
With true-love showers.

KING CLAUDIUS     How do you, pretty lady?

OPHELIA            Well, God 'ild you! They say the owl was a baker's daughter. Lord, we know what we are, but know not what we may be. God be at your table!

KING CLAUDIUS     Conceit upon her father.

OPHELIA            Pray you, let's have no words of this; but when they ask you what it means, say you this:

[Sings]

To-morrow is Saint Valentine's day,
All in the morning betime,
And I a maid at your window,
To be your Valentine.
Then up he rose, and donn'd his clothes,
And dupp'd the chamber-door;
Let in the maid, that out a maid
Never departed more.

KING CLAUDIUS     Pretty Ophelia!

OPHELIA            Indeed, la, without an oath, I'll make an end on't:

[Sings]

By Gis and by Saint Charity,
Alack, and fie for shame!
Young men will do't, if they come to't;

By cock, they are to blame.
Quoth she, before you tumbled me,
You promised me to wed.
So would I ha' done, by yonder sun,
An thou hadst not come to my bed.

KING CLAUDIUS     How long hath she been thus?

OPHELIA            I hope all will be well. We must be patient: but I cannot choose but weep, to think they should lay him i' the cold ground. My brother shall know of it: and so I thank you for your good counsel. Come, my coach! Good night, ladies; good night, sweet ladies; good night, good night.

[Exit]

KING CLAUDIUS     Follow her close; give her good watch,
I pray you.

[Exit HORATIO]

O, this is the poison of deep grief; it springs
All from her father's death. O Gertrude, Gertrude,
When sorrows come, they come not single spies
But in battalions. First, her father slain:
Next, your son gone; and he most violent author
Of his own just remove: the people muddied,
Thick and unwholesome in their thoughts and whispers,
For good Polonius' death; and we have done but greenly,
In hugger-mugger to inter him: poor Ophelia
Divided from herself and her fair judgment,
Without the which we are pictures, or mere beasts:
Last, and as much containing as all these,
Her brother is in secret come from France;
Feeds on his wonder, keeps himself in clouds,
And wants not buzzers to infect his ear
With pestilent speeches of his father's death;
Wherein necessity, of matter beggar'd,
Will nothing stick our person to arraign
In ear and ear. O my dear Gertrude, this,
Like to a murdering-piece, in many places
Gives me superfluous death.

[A noise within]

QUEEN GERTRUDE    Alack, what noise is this?

KING CLAUDIUS     Where are my Switzers? Let them guard the door.

[Enter another Gentleman]

What is the matter?

Gentleman            Save yourself, my lord:
The ocean, overpeering of his list,
Eats not the flats with more impetuous haste
Than young Laertes, in a riotous head,
O'erbears your officers. The rabble call him lord;
And, as the world were now but to begin,
Antiquity forgot, custom not known,
The ratifiers and props of every word,
They cry 'Choose we: Laertes shall be king:'
Caps, hands, and tongues, applaud it to the clouds:
'Laertes shall be king, Laertes king!'

QUEEN GERTRUDE    How cheerfully on the false trail they cry!
O, this is counter, you false Danish dogs!

KING CLAUDIUS     The doors are broke.

                     [Noise within]

                     [Enter LAERTES, armed; Danes following]

LAERTES            Where is this king? Sirs, stand you all without.

Danes              No, let's come in.

LAERTES                                I pray you, give me leave.

Danes              We will, we will.

                     [They retire without the door]

LAERTES            I thank you: keep the door. O thou vile king, Give me my father!

QUEEN GERTRUDE                        Calmly, good Laertes.

LAERTES            That drop of blood that's calm proclaims me bastard,
Cries cuckold to my father, brands the harlot
Even here, between the chaste unsmirched brow
Of my true mother.

KING CLAUDIUS                        What is the cause, Laertes,
That thy rebellion looks so giant-like?
Let him go, Gertrude; do not fear our person:
There's such divinity doth hedge a king,
That treason can but peep to what it would,
Acts little of his will. Tell me, Laertes,
Why thou art thus incensed. Let him go, Gertrude.
Speak, man.

LAERTES            Where is my father?

KING CLAUDIUS     Dead.

QUEEN GERTRUDE But not by him.

KING CLAUDIUS Let him demand his fill.

LAERTES How came he dead? I'll not be juggled with:
To hell, allegiance! vows, to the blackest devil!
Conscience and grace, to the profoundest pit!
I dare damnation. To this point I stand,
That both the worlds I give to negligence,
Let come what comes; only I'll be revenged
Most thoroughly for my father.

KING CLAUDIUS Who shall stay you?

LAERTES My will, not all the world:
And for my means, I'll husband them so well,
They shall go far with little.

KING CLAUDIUS Good Laertes,
If you desire to know the certainty
Of your dear father's death, is't writ in your revenge,
That, swoopstake, you will draw both friend and foe,
Winner and loser?

LAERTES None but his enemies.

KING CLAUDIUS Will you know them then?

LAERTES To his good friends thus wide I'll ope my arms;
And like the kind life-rendering pelican,
Repast them with my blood.

KING CLAUDIUS Why, now you speak
Like a good child and a true gentleman.
That I am guiltless of your father's death,
And am most sensible in grief for it,
It shall as level to your judgment pierce
As day does to your eye.

Danes [Within] Let her come in.

LAERTES How now! what noise is that?

[Re-enter OPHELIA]

O heat, dry up my brains! tears seven times salt,
Burn out the sense and virtue of mine eye!
By heaven, thy madness shall be paid by weight,
Till our scale turn the beam. O rose of May!
Dear maid, kind sister, sweet Ophelia!
O heavens! is't possible, a young maid's wits
Should be as moral as an old man's life?
Nature is fine in love, and where 'tis fine,
It sends some precious instance of itself

After the thing it loves.

OPHELIA [Sings]

They bore him barefaced on the bier;
Hey non nonny, nonny, hey nonny;
And in his grave rain'd many a tear:--
Fare you well, my dove!

LAERTES Hadst thou thy wits, and didst persuade revenge,
It could not move thus.

OPHELIA [Sings]

You must sing a-down a-down,
An you call him a-down-a.
O, how the wheel becomes it! It is the false steward, that stole his master's daughter.

LAERTES This nothing's more than matter.

OPHELIA There's rosemary, that's for remembrance; pray, love, remember: and there is pansies. that's for thoughts.

LAERTES A document in madness, thoughts and remembrance fitted.

OPHELIA There's fennel for you, and columbines: there's rue for you; and here's some for me: we may call it herb-grace o' Sundays: O you must wear your rue with a difference. There's a daisy: I would give you some violets, but they withered all when my father died: they say he made a good end,--

[Sings]

For bonny sweet Robin is all my joy.

LAERTES Thought and affliction, passion, hell itself,
She turns to favour and to prettiness.

OPHELIA [Sings]

And will he not come again?
And will he not come again?
No, no, he is dead:
Go to thy death-bed:
He never will come again.

His beard was as white as snow,
All flaxen was his poll:
He is gone, he is gone,
And we cast away moan:
God ha' mercy on his soul!

And of all Christian souls, I pray God. God be wi' ye.

[Exit]

LAERTES            Do you see this, O God?

KING CLAUDIUS    Laertes, I must commune with your grief,
Or you deny me right. Go but apart,
Make choice of whom your wisest friends you will.
And they shall hear and judge 'twixt you and me:
If by direct or by collateral hand
They find us touch'd, we will our kingdom give,
Our crown, our life, and all that we can ours,
To you in satisfaction; but if not,
Be you content to lend your patience to us,
And we shall jointly labour with your soul
To give it due content.

LAERTES            Let this be so;
His means of death, his obscure funeral--
No trophy, sword, nor hatchment o'er his bones,
No noble rite nor formal ostentation--
Cry to be heard, as 'twere from heaven to earth,
That I must call't in question.

KING CLAUDIUS    So you shall;
And where the offence is let the great axe fall.
I pray you, go with me.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT IV

SCENE VI           Another room in the castle.

[Enter HORATIO and a Servant]

HORATIO           What are they that would speak with me?

Servant           Sailors, sir: they say they have letters for you.

HORATIO           Let them come in.

[Exit Servant]

I do not know from what part of the world
I should be greeted, if not from Lord Hamlet.

[Enter Sailors]

First Sailor      God bless you, sir.

HORATIO            Let him bless thee too.

First Sailor      He shall, sir, an't please him. There's a letter for you, sir; it comes from the ambassador that was bound for England; if your name be Horatio, as I am let to know it is.

HORATIO            [Reads] 'Horatio, when thou shalt have overlooked this, give these fellows some means to the king:
they have letters for him. Ere we were two days old at sea, a pirate of very warlike appointment gave us chase. Finding ourselves too slow of sail, we put on a compelled valour, and in the grapple I boarded them: on the instant they got clear of our ship; so I alone became their prisoner. They have dealt with me like thieves of mercy: but they knew what they did; I am to do a good turn for them. Let the king have the letters I have sent; and repair thou to me with as much speed as thou wouldst fly death. I have words to speak in thine ear will make thee dumb; yet are they much too light for the bore of the matter. These good fellows will bring thee where I am. Rosencrantz and Guildenstern hold their course for England: of them I have much to tell thee. Farewell.
'He that thou knowest thine, HAMLET.'
Come, I will make you way for these your letters;
And do't the speedier, that you may direct me
To him from whom you brought them.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT IV

SCENE VII          Another room in the castle.

[Enter KING CLAUDIUS and LAERTES]

KING CLAUDIUS      Now must your conscience my acquaintance seal,

KING CLAUDIUS     A very riband in the cap of youth,
                          Yet needful too; for youth no less becomes
                          The light and careless livery that it wears
                          Than settled age his sables and his weeds,
                          Importing health and graveness. Two months since,
                          Here was a gentleman of Normandy:--
                          I've seen myself, and served against, the French,
                          And they can well on horseback: but this gallant
                          Had witchcraft in't; he grew unto his seat;
                          And to such wondrous doing brought his horse,
                          As he had been incorpsed and demi-natured
                          With the brave beast: so far he topp'd my thought,
                          That I, in forgery of shapes and tricks,
                          Come short of what he did.

LAERTES             A Norman was't?

KING CLAUDIUS     A Norman.

LAERTES             Upon my life, Lamond.

KING CLAUDIUS     The very same.

LAERTES             I know him well: he is the brooch indeed
                          And gem of all the nation.

KING CLAUDIUS     He made confession of you,
                          And gave you such a masterly report
                          For art and exercise in your defence
                          And for your rapier most especially,
                          That he cried out, 'twould be a sight indeed,
                          If one could match you: the scrimers of their nation,
                          He swore, had had neither motion, guard, nor eye,
                          If you opposed them. Sir, this report of his
                          Did Hamlet so envenom with his envy
                          That he could nothing do but wish and beg
                          Your sudden coming o'er, to play with him.
                          Now, out of this,--

LAERTES             What out of this, my lord?

KING CLAUDIUS     Laertes, was your father dear to you?
                          Or are you like the painting of a sorrow,
                          A face without a heart?

LAERTES             Why ask you this?

KING CLAUDIUS     Not that I think you did not love your father;
                          But that I know love is begun by time;
                          And that I see, in passages of proof,
                          Time qualifies the spark and fire of it.
                          There lives within the very flame of love
                          A kind of wick or snuff that will abate it;

And nothing is at a like goodness still;
For goodness, growing to a plurisy,
Dies in his own too much: that we would do
We should do when we would; for this 'would' changes
And hath abatements and delays as many
As there are tongues, are hands, are accidents;
And then this 'should' is like a spendthrift sigh,
That hurts by easing. But, to the quick o' the ulcer:--
Hamlet comes back: what would you undertake,
To show yourself your father's son in deed
More than in words?

LAERTES                   To cut his throat i' the church.

KING CLAUDIUS       No place, indeed, should murder sanctuarize;
Revenge should have no bounds. But, good Laertes,
Will you do this, keep close within your chamber.
Hamlet return'd shall know you are come home:
We'll put on those shall praise your excellence
And set a double varnish on the fame
The Frenchman gave you, bring you in fine together
And wager on your heads: he, being remiss,
Most generous and free from all contriving,
Will not peruse the foils; so that, with ease,
Or with a little shuffling, you may choose
A sword unbated, and in a pass of practise
Requite him for your father.

LAERTES                   I will do't:
And, for that purpose, I'll anoint my sword.
I bought an unction of a mountebank,
So mortal that, but dip a knife in it,
Where it draws blood no cataplasm so rare,
Collected from all simples that have virtue
Under the moon, can save the thing from death
That is but scratch'd withal: I'll touch my point
With this contagion, that, if I gall him slightly,
It may be death.

KING CLAUDIUS                   Let's further think of this;
Weigh what convenience both of time and means
May fit us to our shape: if this should fail,
And that our drift look through our bad performance,
'Twere better not assay'd: therefore this project
Should have a back or second, that might hold,
If this should blast in proof. Soft! let me see:
We'll make a solemn wager on your cunnings: I ha't.
When in your motion you are hot and dry--
As make your bouts more violent to that end--
And that he calls for drink, I'll have prepared him
A chalice for the nonce, whereon but sipping,
If he by chance escape your venom'd stuck,
Our purpose may hold there.

[Enter QUEEN GERTRUDE]

How now, sweet queen!

QUEEN GERTRUDE One woe doth tread upon another's heel,
So fast they follow; your sister's drown'd, Laertes.

LAERTES Drown'd! O, where?

QUEEN GERTRUDE There is a willow grows aslant a brook,
That shows his hoar leaves in the glassy stream;
There with fantastic garlands did she come
Of crow-flowers, nettles, daisies, and long purples
That liberal shepherds give a grosser name,
But our cold maids do dead men's fingers call them:
There, on the pendent boughs her coronet weeds
Clambering to hang, an envious sliver broke;
When down her weedy trophies and herself
Fell in the weeping brook. Her clothes spread wide;
And, mermaid-like, awhile they bore her up:
Which time she chanted snatches of old tunes;
As one incapable of her own distress,
Or like a creature native and indued
Unto that element: but long it could not be Till that her garments, heavy with their drink,
Pull'd the poor wretch from her melodious lay
To muddy death.

LAERTES Alas, then, she is drown'd?

QUEEN GERTRUDE Drown'd, drown'd.

LAERTES Too much of water hast thou, poor Ophelia,
And therefore I forbid my tears: but yet
It is our trick; nature her custom holds,
Let shame say what it will: when these are gone,
The woman will be out. Adieu, my lord:
I have a speech of fire, that fain would blaze,
But that this folly douts it.

[Exit]

KING CLAUDIUS Let's follow, Gertrude:
How much I had to do to calm his rage!
Now fear I this will give it start again;
Therefore let's follow.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT V

SCENE I           A churchyard.

[Enter two Clowns, with spades, &c]

First Clown       Is she to be buried in Christian burial that wilfully seeks her own salvation?

Second Clown     I tell thee she is: and therefore make her grave straight: the crowner hath sat on her, and finds it Christian burial.

First Clown       How can that be, unless she drowned herself in her own defence?

Second Clown     Why, 'tis found so.

First Clown       It must be 'se offendendo;' it cannot be else. For here lies the point: if I drown myself wittingly, it argues an act: and an act hath three branches: it is, to act, to do, to perform: argal, she drowned herself wittingly.

Second Clown     Nay, but hear you, goodman delver,--

First Clown       Give me leave. Here lies the water; good: here stands the man; good; if the man go to this water, and drown himself, it is, will he, nill he, he goes,--mark you that; but if the water come to him and drown him, he drowns not himself: argal, he that is not guilty of his own death shortens not his own life.

Second Clown     But is this law?

First Clown       Ay, marry, is't; crowner's quest law.

Second Clown     Will you ha' the truth on't? If this had not been a gentlewoman, she should have been buried out o' Christian burial.

First Clown       Why, there thou say'st: and the more pity that great folk should have countenance in this world to drown or hang themselves, more than their even Christian. Come, my spade. There is no ancient gentleman but gardeners, ditchers, and grave-makers: they hold up Adam's profession.

Second Clown     Was he a gentleman?

First Clown        He was the first that ever bore arms.

Second Clown      Why, he had none.

First Clown        What, art a heathen? How dost thou understand the Scripture? The Scripture says 'Adam digged:' could he dig without arms? I'll put another question to thee: if thou answerest me not to the purpose, confess thyself--

Second Clown      Go to.

First Clown        What is he that builds stronger than either the mason, the shipwright, or the carpenter?

Second Clown      The gallows-maker; for that frame outlives a thousand tenants.

First Clown        I like thy wit well, in good faith: the gallows does well; but how does it well? it does well to those that do in: now thou dost ill to say the gallows is built stronger than the church: argal, the gallows may do well to thee. To't again, come.

Second Clown      'Who builds stronger than a mason, a shipwright, or a carpenter?'

First Clown        Ay, tell me that, and unyoke.

Second Clown      Marry, now I can tell.

First Clown        To't.

Second Clown      Mass, I cannot tell.

[Enter HAMLET and HORATIO, at a distance]

First Clown        Cudgel thy brains no more about it, for your dull ass will not mend his pace with beating; and, when you are asked this question next, say 'a grave-maker: 'the houses that he makes last till doomsday. Go, get thee to Yaughan: fetch me a stoup of liquor.

[Exit Second Clown]

[He digs and sings]

In youth, when I did love, did love,
Methought it was very sweet,
To contract, O, the time, for, ah, my behave,
O, methought, there was nothing meet.

HAMLET           Has this fellow no feeling of his business, that he sings at grave-making?

HORATIO           Custom hath made it in him a property of easiness.

HAMLET           'Tis e'en so: the hand of little employment hath the daintier sense.

First Clown       [Sings]

                 But age, with his stealing steps,
                 Hath claw'd me in his clutch,
                 And hath shipped me intil the land,
                 As if I had never been such.

                 [Throws up a skull]

HAMLET           That skull had a tongue in it, and could sing once:
                 how the knave jowls it to the ground, as if it were Cain's jaw-bone, that did the first murder! It might be the pate of a politician, which this ass now o'er-reaches; one that would circumvent God, might it not?

HORATIO           It might, my lord.

HAMLET           Or of a courtier; which could say 'Good morrow, sweet lord! How dost thou, good lord?' This might be my lord such-a-one, that praised my lord such-a-one's horse, when he meant to beg it; might it not?

HORATIO           Ay, my lord.

HAMLET           Why, e'en so: and now my Lady Worm's; chapless, and knocked about the mazzard with a sexton's spade:
                 here's fine revolution, an we had the trick to see't. Did these bones cost no more the breeding, but to play at loggats with 'em? mine ache to think on't.

First Clown: [Sings]

                 A pick-axe, and a spade, a spade,
                 For and a shrouding sheet:
                 O, a pit of clay for to be made
                 For such a guest is meet.

                 [Throws up another skull]

HAMLET           There's another: why may not that be the skull of a lawyer? Where be his quiddities now, his quilllets, his cases, his tenures, and his tricks? why does he suffer this rude knave now to knock him about the sconce with a dirty shovel, and will not tell him of his action of battery? Hum! This fellow might be in's time a great buyer of land, with his statutes, his recognizances, his fines, his double vouchers, his recoveries: is this the fine of his fines, and the recovery of his recoveries, to have his fine pate full of fine dirt? will his vouchers vouch him no more of his purchases, and double ones too, than the length and breadth of a pair of indentures? The very conveyances of his lands will hardly lie in this box; and must the inheritor himself have no more, ha?

HORATIO           Not a jot more, my lord.

HAMLET           Is not parchment made of sheepskins?

HORATIO           Ay, my lord, and of calf-skins too.

HAMLET           They are sheep and calves which seek out assurance in that. I will speak to this fellow. Whose grave's this, sirrah?

First Clown       Mine, sir.

[Sings]

O, a pit of clay for to be made
For such a guest is meet.

HAMLET           I think it be thine, indeed; for thou liest in't.

First Clown       You lie out on't, sir, and therefore it is not yours: for my part, I do not lie in't, and yet it is mine.

HAMLET           'Thou dost lie in't, to be in't and say it is thine:
liest.
'tis for the dead, not for the quick; therefore thou

First Clown       'Tis a quick lie, sir; 'twill away gain, from me to you.

HAMLET           What man dost thou dig it for?

First Clown       For no man, sir.

HAMLET           What woman, then?

First Clown       For none, neither.

HAMLET           Who is to be buried in't?

First Clown       One that was a woman, sir; but, rest her soul, she's dead.

HAMLET           How absolute the knave is! we must speak by the card, or equivocation will undo us. By the Lord, Horatio, these three years I have taken a note of it; the age is grown so picked that the toe of the peasant comes so near the heel of the courtier, he gaffs his kibe. How long hast thou been a grave-maker?

First Clown      Of all the days i' the year, I came to't that day that our last king Hamlet overcame Fortinbras.

HAMLET            How long is that since?

First Clown      Cannot you tell that? every fool can tell that: it was the very day that young Hamlet was born; he that is mad, and sent into England.

HAMLET            Ay, marry, why was he sent into England?

First Clown      Why, because he was mad: he shall recover his wits there; or, if he do not, it's no great matter there.

HAMLET            Why?

First Clown      'Twill, a not be seen in him there; there the men are as mad as he.

HAMLET            How came he mad?

First Clown      Very strangely, they say.

HAMLET            How strangely?

First Clown      Faith, e'en with losing his wits.

HAMLET            Upon what ground?

First Clown      Why, here in Denmark: I have been sexton here, man and boy, thirty years.

HAMLET            How long will a man lie i' the earth ere he rot?

First Clown      I' faith, if he be not rotten before he die--as we have many pocky corpses now-a-days, that will scarce hold the laying in--he will last you some eight year or nine year: a tanner will last you nine year.

HAMLET            Why he more than another?

First Clown      Why, sir, his hide is so tanned with his trade, that he will keep out water a great while; and your water is a sore decayer of your whoreson dead body. Here's a skull now; this skull has lain in the earth three and twenty years.

HAMLET            Whose was it?

First Clown        A whoreson mad fellow's it was: whose do you think it was?

HAMLET            Nay, I know not.

First Clown        A pestilence on him for a mad rogue! a' poured a flagon of Rhenish on my head once. This same skull, sir, was Yorick's skull, the king's jester.

HAMLET            This?

First Clown        E'en that.

HAMLET            Let me see.

[Takes the skull]

Alas, poor Yorick! I knew him, Horatio: a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy: he hath borne me on his back a thousand times; and now, how abhorred in my imagination it is! my gorge rims at
it. Here hung those lips that I have kissed I know not how oft. Where be your gibes now? your gambols? your songs? your flashes of merriment, that were wont to set the table on a roar? Not one now, to mock your own grinning? quite chap-fallen?
Now get you to my lady's chamber, and tell her, let her paint an inch thick, to this favour she must come; make her laugh at that. Prithee, Horatio, tell me one thing.

HORATIO           What's that, my lord?

HAMLET            Dost thou think Alexander looked o' this fashion i'
the earth?

HORATIO           E'en so.

HAMLET            And smelt so? pah!

[Puts down the skull]

HORATIO           E'en so, my lord.

HAMLET            To what base uses we may return, Horatio! Why may not imagination trace the noble dust of Alexander, till he find it stopping a bung-hole?

HORATIO           'Twere to consider too curiously, to consider so.

HAMLET            No, faith, not a jot; but to follow him thither with modesty enough, and likelihood to lead it: as thus: Alexander died, Alexander was buried, Alexander returneth into dust; the dust is earth; of earth we make loam; and why of that loam, whereto he was converted, might they not stop a beer-barrel?

Imperious Caesar, dead and turn'd to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away:
O, that that earth, which kept the world in awe,
Should patch a wall to expel the winter flaw!
But soft! but soft! aside: here comes the king.

[Enter Priest, &c. in procession; the Corpse of OPHELIA, LAERTES and Mourners following; KING
CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, their trains, &c]

The queen, the courtiers: who is this they follow?
And with such maimed rites? This doth betoken
The corse they follow did with desperate hand
Fordo its own life: 'twas of some estate.
Couch we awhile, and mark.

[Retiring with HORATIO]

LAERTES           What ceremony else?

HAMLET           That is Laertes,
A very noble youth: mark.

LAERTES           What ceremony else?

First Priest       Her obsequies have been as far enlarged
As we have warrantise: her death was doubtful;
And, but that great command o'ersways the order,
She should in ground unsanctified have lodged
Till the last trumpet: for charitable prayers,
Shards, flints and pebbles should be thrown on her;
Yet here she is allow'd her virgin crants,
Her maiden strewments and the bringing home
Of bell and burial.

LAERTES           Must there no more be done?

First Priest       No more be done:
We should profane the service of the dead
To sing a requiem and such rest to her
As to peace-parted souls.

LAERTES           Lay her i' the earth:
And from her fair and unpolluted flesh
May violets spring! I tell thee, churlish priest,
A ministering angel shall my sister be,
When thou liest howling.

HAMLET           What, the fair Ophelia!

QUEEN GERTRUDE   Sweets to the sweet: farewell!

[Scattering flowers]

I hoped thou shouldst have been my Hamlet's wife;
I thought thy bride-bed to have deck'd, sweet maid,
And not have strew'd thy grave.

LAERTES           O, treble woe
Fall ten times treble on that cursed head,
Whose wicked deed thy most ingenious sense
Deprived thee of! Hold off the earth awhile,
Till I have caught her once more in mine arms:

[Leaps into the grave]

Now pile your dust upon the quick and dead,
Till of this flat a mountain you have made,
To o'ertop old Pelion, or the skyish head
Of blue Olympus.

HAMLET           [Advancing]       What is he whose grief
Bears such an emphasis? whose phrase of sorrow
Conjures the wandering stars, and makes them stand
Like wonder-wounded hearers? This is I,
Hamlet the Dane.

[Leaps into the grave]

LAERTES                               The devil take thy soul!

[Grappling with him]

HAMLET           Thou pray'st not well.
I prithee, take thy fingers from my throat;
For, though I am not splenitive and rash,
Yet have I something in me dangerous,
Which let thy wiseness fear: hold off thy hand.

KING CLAUDIUS   Pluck them asunder.

QUEEN GERTRUDE   Hamlet, Hamlet!

All               Gentlemen,--

HORATIO                               Good my lord, be quiet.

[The Attendants part them, and they come out of the grave]

HAMLET           Why I will fight with him upon this theme Until my eyelids will no longer wag.

QUEEN GERTRUDE   O my son, what theme?

HAMLET           I loved Ophelia: forty thousand brothers
Could not, with all their quantity of love,
Make up my sum. What wilt thou do for her?

KING CLAUDIUS    O, he is mad, Laertes.

QUEEN GERTRUDE   For love of God, forbear him.

HAMLET            'Swords, show me what thou'lt do:
Woo't weep? woo't fight? woo't fast? woo't tear thyself?
Woo't drink up eisel? eat a crocodile?
I'll do't. Dost thou come here to whine?
To outface me with leaping in her grave?
Be buried quick with her, and so will I:
And, if thou prate of mountains, let them throw
Millions of acres on us, till our ground,
Singeing his pate against the burning zone,
Make Ossa like a wart! Nay, an thou'lt mouth,
I'll rant as well as thou.

QUEEN GERTRUDE   This is mere madness:
And thus awhile the fit will work on him;
Anon, as patient as the female dove,
When that her golden couplets are disclosed,
His silence will sit drooping.

HAMLET            Hear you, sir;
What is the reason that you use me thus?
I loved you ever: but it is no matter;
Let Hercules himself do what he may,
The cat will mew and dog will have his day.

[Exit]

KING CLAUDIUS    I pray you, good Horatio, wait upon him.

[Exit HORATIO]

[To LAERTES]

Strengthen your patience in our last night's speech;
We'll put the matter to the present push.
Good Gertrude, set some watch over your son.
This grave shall have a living monument:
An hour of quiet shortly shall we see;
Till then, in patience our proceeding be.

[Exeunt]

HAMLET

ACT V

SCENE II

A hall in the castle.

[Enter HAMLET and HORATIO]

HAMLET            So much for this, sir: now shall you see the other;
You do remember all the circumstance?

HORATIO          Remember it, my lord?

HAMLET            Sir, in my heart there was a kind of fighting,
That would not let me sleep: methought I lay
Worse than the mutines in the bilboes. Rashly,
And praised be rashness for it, let us know,
Our indiscretion sometimes serves us well,
When our deep plots do pall: and that should teach us
There's a divinity that shapes our ends,
Rough-hew them how we will,--

HORATIO          That is most certain.

HAMLET            Up from my cabin,
My sea-gown scarf'd about me, in the dark
Groped I to find out them; had my desire.
Finger'd their packet, and in fine withdrew
To mine own room again; making so bold,
My fears forgetting manners, to unseal
Their grand commission; where I found, Horatio,--
O royal knavery!--an exact command,
Larded with many several sorts of reasons
Importing Denmark's health and England's too,
With, ho! such bugs and goblins in my life,
That, on the supervise, no leisure bated,
No, not to stay the grinding of the axe,
My head should be struck off.

HORATIO          Is't possible?

HAMLET            Here's the commission: read it at more leisure.
But wilt thou hear me how I did proceed?

HORATIO          I beseech you.

HAMLET            Being thus be-netted round with villanies,--
Ere I could make a prologue to my brains,
They had begun the play--I sat me down,
Devised a new commission, wrote it fair:
I once did hold it, as our statists do,
A baseness to write fair and labour'd much
How to forget that learning, but, sir, now
It did me yeoman's service: wilt thou know
The effect of what I wrote?

HORATIO            Ay, good my lord.

HAMLET            An earnest conjuration from the king,
As England was his faithful tributary,
As love between them like the palm might flourish,
As peace should stiff her wheaten garland wear
And stand a comma 'tween their amities,
And many such-like 'As'es of great charge,
That, on the view and knowing of these contents,
Without debatement further, more or less,
He should the bearers put to sudden death,
Not shriving-time allow'd.

HORATIO            How was this seal'd?

HAMLET            Why, even in that was heaven ordinant.
I had my father's signet in my purse,
Which was the model of that Danish seal;
Folded the writ up in form of the other,
Subscribed it, gave't the impression, placed it safely,
The changeling never known. Now, the next day
Was our sea-fight; and what to this was sequent
Thou know'st already.

HORATIO            So Guildenstern and Rosencrantz go to't.

HAMLET            Why, man, they did make love to this employment;
They are not near my conscience; their defeat
Does by their own insinuation grow:
'Tis dangerous when the baser nature comes
Between the pass and fell incensed points
Of mighty opposites.

HORATIO            Why, what a king is this!

HAMLET            Does it not, think'st thee, stand me now upon--
He that hath kill'd my king and whored my mother,
Popp'd in between the election and my hopes,
Thrown out his angle for my proper life,
And with such cozenage--is't not perfect conscience,
To quit him with this arm? and is't not to be damn'd,
To let this canker of our nature come
In further evil?

HORATIO            It must be shortly known to him from England
What is the issue of the business there.

HAMLET            It will be short: the interim is mine;
And a man's life's no more than to say 'One.'
But I am very sorry, good Horatio,
That to Laertes I forgot myself;
For, by the image of my cause, I see
The portraiture of his: I'll court his favours.
But, sure, the bravery of his grief did put me

Into a towering passion.

HORATIO Peace! who comes here?

[Enter OSRIC]

OSRIC Your lordship is right welcome back to Denmark.

HAMLET I humbly thank you, sir. Dost know this water-fly?

HORATIO No, my good lord.

HAMLET Thy state is the more gracious; for 'tis a vice to know him. He hath much land, and fertile: let a beast be lord of beasts, and his crib shall stand at the king's mess: 'tis a chough; but, as I say, spacious in the possession of dirt.

OSRIC Sweet lord, if your lordship were at leisure, I should impart a thing to you from his majesty.

HAMLET I will receive it, sir, with all diligence of spirit. Put your bonnet to his right use; 'tis for the head.

OSRIC I thank your lordship, it is very hot.

HAMLET No, believe me, 'tis very cold; the wind is northerly.

OSRIC It is indifferent cold, my lord, indeed.

HAMLET But yet methinks it is very sultry and hot for my complexion.

OSRIC Exceedingly, my lord; it is very sultry,--as 'twere,--I cannot tell how. But, my lord, his majesty bade me signify to you that he has laid a great wager on your head: sir, this is the matter,--

HAMLET I beseech you, remember--

[HAMLET moves him to put on his hat]

OSRIC Nay, good my lord; for mine ease, in good faith. Sir, here is newly come to court Laertes; believe me, an absolute gentleman, full of most excellent differences, of very soft society and great showing: indeed, to speak feelingly of him, he is the card or calendar of gentry, for you shall find in him the continent of what part a gentleman would see.

HAMLET Sir, his definement suffers no perdition in you; though, I know, to divide him inventorially would dizzy the arithmetic of memory, and yet but yaw neither, in respect of his quick sail. But, in the verity of extolment, I take him to be a soul of great article; and his infusion of such dearth and rareness, as, to make true diction of him, his semblable is his mirror; and who else would trace him, his umbrage, nothing more.

OSRIC                   Your lordship speaks most infallibly of him.

HAMLET                 The concernancy, sir? why do we wrap the gentleman in our more rawer breath?

OSRIC                   Sir?

HORATIO                Is't not possible to understand in another tongue?
You will do't, sir, really.

HAMLET                 What imports the nomination of this gentleman?

OSRIC                   Of Laertes?

HORATIO                His purse is empty already; all's golden words are spent.

HAMLET                 Of him, sir.

OSRIC                   I know you are not ignorant--

HAMLET                 I would you did, sir; yet, in faith, if you did, it would not much approve me. Well, sir?

OSRIC                   You are not ignorant of what excellence Laertes is--

HAMLET                 I dare not confess that, lest I should compare with him in excellence; but, to know a man well, were to know himself.

OSRIC                   I mean, sir, for his weapon; but in the imputation laid on him by them, in his meed he's unfellowed.

HAMLET                 What's his weapon?

OSRIC                   Rapier and dagger.

HAMLET                 That's two of his weapons: but, well.

OSRIC                   The king, sir, hath wagered with him six Barbary horses: against the which he has imponed, as I take it, six French rapiers and poniards, with their assigns, as girdle, hangers, and so: three of the carriages, in faith, are very dear to fancy, very responsive to the hilts, most delicate carriages, and of very liberal conceit.

HAMLET                   What call you the carriages?

HORATIO                 I knew you must be edified by the margent ere you had done.

OSRIC                   The carriages, sir, are the hangers.

HAMLET                   The phrase would be more german to the matter, if we could carry cannon by our sides: I would it might be hangers till then. But, on: six Barbary horses against six French swords, their assigns, and three liberal-conceited carriages; that's the French bet against the Danish. Why is this 'imponed,' as you call it?

OSRIC                   The king, sir, hath laid, that in a dozen passes between yourself and him, he shall not exceed you three hits: he hath laid on twelve for nine; and it would come to immediate trial, if your lordship would vouchsafe the answer.

HAMLET                   How if I answer 'no'?

OSRIC                   I mean, my lord, the opposition of your person in trial.

HAMLET                   Sir, I will walk here in the hall: if it please his majesty, 'tis the breathing time of day with me; let the foils be brought, the gentleman willing, and the king hold his purpose, I will win for him an I can; if not, I will gain nothing but my shame and the odd hits.

OSRIC                   Shall I re-deliver you e'en so?

HAMLET                   To this effect, sir; after what flourish your nature will.

OSRIC                   I commend my duty to your lordship.

HAMLET                   Yours, yours.

[Exit OSRIC]

He does well to commend it himself; there are no tongues else for's turn.

HORATIO                 This lapwing runs away with the shell on his head.

HAMLET                   He did comply with his dug, before he sucked it. Thus has he--and many more of the same bevy that I know the dressy age dotes on--only got the tune of the time and outward habit of encounter; a kind of yesty collection, which carries them through and through the most fond and winnowed opinions; and do but blow them to their trial, the bubbles are out.

[Enter a Lord]

Lord                   My lord, his majesty commended him to you by young Osric, who brings back to him that you attend him in the hall: he sends to know if your pleasure hold to play with Laertes, or that you will take longer time.

HAMLET                I am constant to my purpose; they follow the king's pleasure: if his fitness speaks, mine is ready; now or whensoever, provided I be so able as now.

Lord                   The king and queen and all are coming down.

HAMLET                In happy time.

Lord                   The queen desires you to use some gentle entertainment to Laertes before you fall to play.

HAMLET                She well instructs me.

                      [Exit Lord]

HORATIO              You will lose this wager, my lord.

HAMLET                I do not think so: since he went into France, I have been in continual practise: I shall win at the odds. But thou wouldst not think how ill all's here about my heart: but it is no matter.

HORATIO              Nay, good my lord,--

HAMLET                It is but foolery; but it is such a kind of gain-giving, as would perhaps trouble a woman.

HORATIO              If your mind dislike any thing, obey it: I will forestall their repair hither, and say you are not fit.

HAMLET                Not a whit, we defy augury: there's a special providence in the fall of a sparrow. If it be now,
'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come: the readiness is all: since no man has aught of what he leaves, what is't to leave betimes?

                      [Enter KING CLAUDIUS, QUEEN GERTRUDE, LAERTES,
Lords, OSRIC, and Attendants with foils, &c]

KING CLAUDIUS        Come, Hamlet, come, and take this hand from me.

                      [KING CLAUDIUS puts LAERTES' hand into HAMLET's]

HAMLET                Give me your pardon, sir: I've done you wrong;
But pardon't, as you are a gentleman.
This presence knows,

And you must needs have heard, how I am punish'd
With sore distraction. What I have done,
That might your nature, honour and exception
Roughly awake, I here proclaim was madness.
Was't Hamlet wrong'd Laertes? Never Hamlet:
If Hamlet from himself be ta'en away,
And when he's not himself does wrong Laertes,
Then Hamlet does it not, Hamlet denies it.
Who does it, then? His madness: if't be so,
Hamlet is of the faction that is wrong'd;
His madness is poor Hamlet's enemy.
Sir, in this audience,
Let my disclaiming from a purposed evil
Free me so far in your most generous thoughts,
That I have shot mine arrow o'er the house,
And hurt my brother.

LAERTES            I am satisfied in nature,
Whose motive, in this case, should stir me most
To my revenge: but in my terms of honour
I stand aloof; and will no reconcilment,
Till by some elder masters, of known honour,
I have a voice and precedent of peace,
To keep my name ungored. But till that time,
I do receive your offer'd love like love,
And will not wrong it.

HAMLET            I embrace it freely;
And will this brother's wager frankly play.
Give us the foils. Come on.

LAERTES            Come, one for me.

HAMLET            I'll be your foil, Laertes: in mine ignorance
Your skill shall, like a star i' the darkest night,
Stick fiery off indeed.

LAERTES            You mock me, sir.

HAMLET            No, by this hand.

KING CLAUDIUS    Give them the foils, young Osric. Cousin Hamlet,
You know the wager?

HAMLET            Very well, my lord
Your grace hath laid the odds o' the weaker side.

KING CLAUDIUS    I do not fear it; I have seen you both:
But since he is better'd, we have therefore odds.

LAERTES            This is too heavy, let me see another.

HAMLET            This likes me well. These foils have all a length?

[They prepare to play]

OSRIC                    Ay, my good lord.

KING CLAUDIUS        Set me the stoops of wine upon that table.
If Hamlet give the first or second hit,
Or quit in answer of the third exchange,
Let all the battlements their ordnance fire:
The king shall drink to Hamlet's better breath;
And in the cup an union shall he throw,
Richer than that which four successive kings
In Denmark's crown have worn. Give me the cups;
And let the kettle to the trumpet speak,
The trumpet to the cannoneer without,
The cannons to the heavens, the heavens to earth,
'Now the king dunks to Hamlet.' Come, begin:
And you, the judges, bear a wary eye.

HAMLET                Come on, sir.

LAERTES                                    Come, my lord.

[They play]

HAMLET                One.

LAERTES                No.

HAMLET                Judgment.

OSRIC                    A hit, a very palpable hit.

LAERTES                Well; again.

KING CLAUDIUS        Stay; give me drink. Hamlet, this pearl is thine;
Here's to thy health.

[Trumpets sound, and cannon shot off within]

Give him the cup.

HAMLET                I'll play this bout first; set it by awhile. Come.

[They play]

Another hit; what say you?

LAERTES                A touch, a touch, I do confess.

KING CLAUDIUS        Our son shall win.

QUEEN GERTRUDE                    He's fat, and scant of breath.
Here, Hamlet, take my napkin, rub thy brows;
The queen carouses to thy fortune, Hamlet.

HAMLET                        Good madam!

KING CLAUDIUS                       Gertrude, do not drink.

QUEEN GERTRUDE     I will, my lord; I pray you, pardon me.

KING CLAUDIUS     [Aside] It is the poison'd cup: it is too late.

HAMLET                       I dare not drink yet, madam; by and by.

QUEEN GERTRUDE     Come, let me wipe thy face.

LAERTES                       My lord, I'll hit him now.

KING CLAUDIUS     I do not think't.

LAERTES                       [Aside] And yet 'tis almost 'gainst my conscience.

HAMLET                       Come, for the third, Laertes: you but dally;
I pray you, pass with your best violence;
I am afeard you make a wanton of me.

LAERTES                       Say you so? come on.

[They play]

OSRIC                       Nothing, neither way.

LAERTES                       Have at you now!

[LAERTES wounds HAMLET; then in scuffling, they change rapiers, and HAMLET wounds LAERTES]

KING CLAUDIUS     Part them; they are incensed.

HAMLET                       Nay, come, again.

[QUEEN GERTRUDE falls]

OSRIC                       Look to the queen there, ho!

HORATIO                       They bleed on both sides. How is it, my lord?

OSRIC                       How is't, Laertes?

LAERTES                       Why, as a woodcock to mine own springe, Osric;
I am justly kill'd with mine own treachery.

HAMLET                       How does the queen?

KING CLAUDIUS     She swoonds to see them bleed.

QUEEN GERTRUDE     No, no, the drink, the drink,--O my dear Hamlet,--

The drink, the drink! I am poison'd.

[Dies]

HAMLET           O villany! Ho! let the door be lock'd:
Treachery! Seek it out.

LAERTES           It is here, Hamlet: Hamlet, thou art slain;
No medicine in the world can do thee good;
In thee there is not half an hour of life;
The treacherous instrument is in thy hand,
Unbated and envenom'd: the foul practise
Hath turn'd itself on me lo, here I lie,
Never to rise again: thy mother's poison'd:
I can no more: the king, the king's to blame.

HAMLET           The point!--envenom'd too!
Then, venom, to thy work.

[Stabs KING CLAUDIUS]

All               Treason! treason!

KING CLAUDIUS    O, yet defend me, friends; I am but hurt.

HAMLET           Here, thou incestuous, murderous, damned Dane,
Drink off this potion. Is thy union here?
Follow my mother.

[KING CLAUDIUS dies]

LAERTES                       He is justly served;
It is a poison temper'd by himself.
Exchange forgiveness with me, noble Hamlet:
Mine and my father's death come not upon thee,
Nor thine on me.

[Dies]

HAMLET           Heaven make thee free of it! I follow thee.
I am dead, Horatio. Wretched queen, adieu!
You that look pale and tremble at this chance,
That are but mutes or audience to this act,
Had I but time--as this fell sergeant, death,
Is strict in his arrest--O, I could tell you--
But let it be. Horatio, I am dead;
Thou livest; report me and my cause aright
To the unsatisfied.

HORATIO           Never believe it:
I am more an antique Roman than a Dane:

HAMLET           As thou'rt a man,

Give me the cup: let go; by heaven, I'll have't.
O good Horatio, what a wounded name,
Things standing thus unknown, shall live behind me!
If thou didst ever hold me in thy heart
Absent thee from felicity awhile,
And in this harsh world draw thy breath in pain,
To tell my story.

[March afar off, and shot within]

What warlike noise is this?

OSRIC                   Young Fortinbras, with conquest come from Poland,
To the ambassadors of England gives
This warlike volley.

HAMLET                O, I die, Horatio;
The potent poison quite o'er-crows my spirit:
I cannot live to hear the news from England;
But I do prophesy the election lights
On Fortinbras: he has my dying voice;
So tell him, with the occurrents, more and less,
Which have solicited. The rest is silence.

[Dies]

HORATIO               Now cracks a noble heart. Good night sweet prince:
And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest!
Why does the drum come hither?

[March within]

[Enter FORTINBRAS, the English Ambassadors, and others]

PRINCE FORTINBRAS                   Where is this sight?

HORATIO               What is it ye would see?
If aught of woe or wonder, cease your search.

PRINCE FORTINBRAS                   This quarry cries on havoc. O proud death,
What feast is toward in thine eternal cell,
That thou so many princes at a shot
So bloodily hast struck?

First Ambassador                   The sight is dismal;
And our affairs from England come too late:
The ears are senseless that should give us hearing,
To tell him his commandment is fulfill'd,
That Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are dead:
Where should we have our thanks?

HORATIO               Not from his mouth,
Had it the ability of life to thank you:

LAERTES            son to Polonius.
LUCIANUS           nephew to the king.

HAMLET

DRAMATIS PERSONAE

CLAUDIUS         king of Denmark. (KING CLAUDIUS:)

HAMLET           son to the late, and nephew to the present king.
denver:~$ tail ~cs253/pub/hamlet.txt
For he was likely, had he been put on,
To have proved most royally: and, for his passage,
The soldiers' music and the rites of war
Speak loudly for him.
Take up the bodies: such a sight as this Becomes the field, but here shows much amiss.
Go, bid the soldiers shoot.

[A dead march. Exeunt, bearing off the dead bodies; after which a peal of ordnance is shot off]
